Full Moon Meditation No. 1 | April 14 and 15, 2014

Driving in separate vehicles, a couple of friends and I headed up to Hopi Reservation on Sunday morning, April 13, 2014. It had been close to eight months since I last paid a visit to Ahote and Tuwa, and a lot had changed during that time.

As we turned off Interstate 40 and headed north on Highway 87, the sky turned dark and the wind blew furiously. The winds of change were blowing once again.

About 30 minutes outside of Hopi the sky opened up and the sun began to shine. The strong winds, however, continued to blow.

We all arrived at the Hopi Cultural Center safely around 5:00 PM, where we met Ahote, Tuwa and several of their family members. It turned out to be a very nice reunion.

After dinner we all headed over to Tuwa's parents house for a brief visit. This was the first time I had officially met Tuwa's mother and father. We all had a very nice time.

We returned to the cultural center around 9:30 PM. I had planned to spend the night in the back of my van, but since the nighttime temperatures hovered around 30 degrees, and the wind was still blowing very strongly, I opted for a room at the cultural center.

After watching a television for about 30 minutes, I went to sleep around 11:30 PM.

I woke up the following morning at 7:30 AM, and walked over to the cultural center for breakfast. My friends joined me sometime later.

After we all finished breakfast, Ahote and Tuwa joined us and then lead us on an all-day tour of Hopi, which included a stop at the Hopi Prophecy Rock, as well as a couple of other sites. We spent the rest of the day touring Tahoe's newly planted fields, and he was gracious enough to share some of his secrets on how to be a successful dry land farmer. I came away from the tour learning a few new things about Ahote and Hopi.

That evening Ahote and Tuwa invited everyone to their home in the village for dinner. Dinner ended around 7:00 PM. Afterwards, we all returned to the cultural center and gathered together briefly to make plans to meet up in the courtyard around midnight to watch the full lunar eclipse. We then headed to our individual hotel rooms to get some rest. I stepped outside around 11:40 PM and noticed that the eclipse had already begun.

I immediately set out to find a place to perform my first meditation. The temperature outside was around 45 degrees. After a brief walkabout I was lead to a picnic table in the campground next to the cultural center. I sat down on one of the benches, looked up at the moon and performed the following meditation:

FULL MOON MEDITATION

Let us invoke for guidance and inspiration:

Heavenly creator we ask you for your love and guidance. We ask that you bless us with an open heart, a clear mind, and a pure spirit, that we may serve you and every living creature on the Earth, and all living creatures throughout the Universe.

Please allow us to open our hearts, our minds, souls and spirits to your infinite unconditional love and compassion. With gratitude. Amen.

INSTRUCTIONS:

- 1) Tap the top of your head to bring attention to your crown chakra
- 2) Press your tongue to the roof of your mouth.
- 3) Relax. While slowly counting to 7 inhale peace, love and light through your mouth and into your body and spirit.
- 4) Hold your breath for 7 seconds.
- 5) While slowly counting to 7 exhale through your nose all anger, resentment and negativity.
- 6) Once again hold your breath for 7 seconds.

(Repeat this exercise two more times. At the end of the third breathing exercise relax and breath normally.)

Then raise your hands to chest level with your palms facing outwards.

Imagine all of the people that you love in front of you as you channel God's loving energy through your crown chakra directing this loving energy through the palms of your hands.

Shower everyone that you know and love with this beautiful loving energy. Hold that thought then imagine the Sun, the Earth and the Moon, and all of the stars in the Universe in front of you as you project waves of this beautiful loving energy throughout the Universe.

Imagine these beautiful waves of energy touching every living thing in Heaven and on Earth. Hold this thought for several moments. Then bring your attention back to Planet Earth.

Repeat the following prayer silently in your mind;

"Dear Heavenly Creator I pray that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born on Planet Earth be prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. I also pray for all of the creatures of the seas, land and air, and ask that they all return to perfect health. I pray that it is time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I pray that you the Creator recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants has a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Earth, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I ask that all of the Unconditional Love that exists on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I send out a prayer asking all of our ancestors from the heavens and the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I let them know that the time is now. I ask that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner, and that the energy of Unconditional Love be present at all times."

Repeat the Lord's prayer as you focus on the following areas of the Earth to help cleanse and prepare the Earth for the purification:

While projecting the color indigo and focusing on the third-eye chakra, the area between your eyes, place your consciousness at the Hopi Indian Reservation and say:

"Our Father, which art in heaven"

Then project the color violet through your crown chakra while focusing on Tibet. Then say:

"Hallowed be they name"

Now move your attention to the Great Pyramids, the Sphinx and the Mound of Olives, project the color blue through your throat chakra and say:

"Thy kingdom come, thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven."

Then move your attention to Mount Shasta, California, project the color red through your root chakra, or the area at the base of your spine and say:

"Give us this day our daily bread."

Then travel in your mind to Ayers Rock & the Olgas in Australia. Project the color yellow through your solar plexus chakra, the area between your ribs, and say:

"And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors."

Then return your consciousness across the Pacific Ocean to Lake Titicaca in Bolivia. Project the color orange through your navel chakra and say:

"And lead us not into temptation"

Then travel in your mind to Glastonbury, Scotland. Project the color green through your heart chakra and say:

"But deliver us from evil"

Return again to the Great Pyramids and the Mound of Olives while projecting the color blue out of your throat chakra and say:

"For thine is the kingdom"

Return your attention to Tibet, project the color violet through your crown chakra and say:

“And the power”

Then return your consciousness to the Hopi Reservation, project indigo through your third-eye chakra and say:

“And the glory forever”

And then finally focus on the entire Earth and say:

“In the Creator’s name, Amen!”

Then sit quietly for 7 minutes. Breathe slowly and silently repeat the word “Om” or “Amen”, while projecting waves of unconditional love throughout the earth, the solar system and the universe. Relax and just let go.

After 7 minutes has passed, return your consciousness to your body and its location on the earth. Take several deep breaths then close out the meditation with the following prayer:

"Dear Heavenly Creator we humbly thank you for your love and affection. We thank you for blessing us with a loving heart, intelligent mind, and willful spirit that we may now go forward and serve you and every living creature on the earth, and throughout the universe. Thank you for opening our hearts, our minds, souls and spirits to your infinite unconditional love and compassion. With sincere gratitude and appreciation, Amen."

Once the meditation was complete I joined my friends in the courtyard of the cultural center to watch the eclipse.

We all agreed that it was an amazing sight to behold.

A few minutes later I returned to my hotel room and performed my meditation for a second time. I wanted to make sure that I performed the meditation during the last fifteen minutes of April 14, and again during the first fifteen minutes of April 15, while the eclipse was in full swing. Once I completed the second meditation I rejoined my friends in the courtyard before eventually saying goodnight around 1:00 AM.

As soon I walked outside the following morning I noticed a very interesting formation in the sky above. Two chem trails had intersected and created what appeared to look like a cross, and directly above the cross was a cloud formation that resembled an eagle, or a dove. I took this a very positive sign that my meditations were a success.

Later that morning, after having breakfast, I drove over to visit Ahote and Tuwa's in their village. Ahote wanted to discuss some things with me. He informed me that he thought it would best that I didn't visit the Sipapuni, mainly because the people that went to visit the Sipapuni went there to die, or return to the spirit world. That was enough information to convince that I shouldn't go. Everything else that we talked about I've decided to keep private.

Before I left I gave Ahote and Tuwa a printed copy of the meditation I had done the night before, with the following web site addresses, which I had written on the back:

www.theanointedchrist.com, and www.williamchristopherjordan.com.

Due to the fact that Ahote and Tuwa didn't have Internet service, I asked them to please share the meditation and links with one of their sons who lived in Phoenix, so he could review my work. I wanted to make sure that if at any point I had mentioned something in my journal that wasn't appropriate, or needed to be removed, they would let me know so I could make the necessary revisions.

Although I had a tremendous amount of love and respect for my friends at Hopi, I suddenly felt the need to detach from them in ways that I couldn't yet explain, or figure out. I felt like the connection was much too delicate at times, and the risk of writing something in my journal that would innocently disrespect them seemed very possible. I certainly didn't want to cross any lines or boundaries. That was not my intention. I also noticed with this last visit that they were very limited with what they could share with me in terms of their traditions and beliefs. Since I had no limitations on my end, this felt a bit unbalanced.

I said goodbye to Ahote and Tuwa and wondered if I would ever actually see them again. I then reunited with my friends and we departed the Hopi Indian Reservation around noon. We then set out for Sedona, Arizona.

After we arrived in Sedona, I spent a few more hours with my friends before heading back to Phoenix.

The very next week, on April 23, 2014, my astrology cardinal sign of Cancer participated in what's known as a Cardinal Grand Cross.

Between the Blood Moon of April 14, and the Cardinal Grand Cross of April 23, 2014, I noticed that I had gone through several more very intense transformations. I couldn't explain it, but I was beginning to see everything and everyone around me very differently.

During the afternoon of April 23, at the peak of the Grand Cross, a baby horned owl appeared. I took the following photograph with my cell phone.

The Grand Cross

After taking the photograph I was blessed with a small feather that the owl had molted on the ground nearby. For me, the sighting of the owl and the feather during the Cardinal Grand Cross was a confirmation that a major transformation was indeed in progress. Another death had taken place, and a rebirth of some sort was imminent.

With my visit to Hopi, the Blood Moon and the Cardinal Grand Cross behind me, I now had to prepare for the next full moon, which was scheduled for May 14, 2014.

On Sunday, May 11, 2014, I sent out a message to all of the mom's that I knew, wishing them a Happy Mother's Day. I honored my own mother by posting the photograph on the left. The photograph is of my mother and myself, and was taken when I was a very young child.

Since my mother was born under the sign of Aquarius, I decided to title the photograph, "The High Priestess and The Magician".

Three days later, on May 14, I performed my second full moon meditation at the labyrinth behind the Franciscan Renewal Center in Phoenix, AZ.

After I parked my vehicle, I headed towards the labyrinth located in the garden in the back of the center. As I approached the garden I walked past the some very interesting signposts that had been placed at different locations along the pathway.

Since I wasn't Catholic and since I knew very little about the Catholic faith, I had no clue as to the meaning behind the signposts, or why they had been placed along the pathway in the garden. Regardless, I decided to include them in my journal.

Once I reached the area surrounding the labyrinth I sat down on a nearby bench and performed the following mediation.

Thank you for opening our hearts, our minds, souls and spirits to your infinite unconditional love and compassion. With sincere gratitude and appreciation, Amen."

I completed my meditation as the sun was setting in the west, and as the full moon appeared in the east.

I walked over to the entrance of the labyrinth and in the light of the full moon sent out another prayer to the Universe. At that very moment a very large owl appeared on top of a tree that was positioned between myself, the labyrinth, and the moon.

I stood at the entrance of the labyrinth and listened to the hooting of the owl for what must have been at least five minutes or so. Suddenly, a sense of magic filled the air.

Coupled with the fact that in my personal astrology chart I was born with a Scorpio moon, and the fact that this particular full moon was taking place in the sign of Scorpio, I knew that the night was very significant. The appearance of the owl was just one confirmation.

Once the owl stopped hooting I stretched out both arms and sent a message to the owl with my mind, thanking it for its wisdom. That's when the owl left its perch and flew directly between me and the moon. I stood frozen in place in complete awe at the size of the owl's massive wingspan.

Once the owl disappeared into the dark night I began my slow, meditative walk into the center of the labyrinth. Once I reached the center I stood quietly facing the moon, as I performed my meditation a second time.

Once I was done with my meditation I folded up the pieces of paper that the meditation was written on, and placed them under a rock in the center of the labyrinth.

I then exited the labyrinth...

...and walked back to my vehicle.

The following day I began wearing an owl ring that a friend of mine had gifted me back in 2009, while living in Portland, Oregon.

The second full moon meditation was now behind me. It was now time to prepare for the next full moon scheduled to take place on June 12, 2014 at 8:13 PM, Arizona time.

Under the new moon of May 28, 2014, I set new intentions for the weeks that followed. I asked the Creator for more inspiration, enlightenment, and a higher level of consciousness, so that I could do my part to help mankind and Mother Earth push forward through the Universe in positive ways.

Although the spiritual side of my life continued to express itself without any difficulties, the more humanistic, physical side of my life, which I decided to keep private and out of this section of my journal, continued to challenge me on almost every level. At times I felt like my soul was on the verge of leaving the planet; my stress level was completely through the roof.

Personally, I didn't believe in separating the spiritual from the physical. I believed that they both went hand-in-hand and needed to be expressed and appreciated on the same level, at the same time. I believed that by separating the spiritual from the physical we ran the risk of creating a deep division within our soul, which was not healthy, or very productive.

However, during this section of my journey, the eighteen full moon meditations between April 14, 2014, and September 28, 2015, I chose to keep the physical challenges of my life out of my journal. Mainly so those challenges wouldn't become a distraction to anyone reading my story.

On Saturday, May 31, 2014, I woke up and received the following message from my higher self:

"Everything you've done in the last several years with your journey goes back before the Hebrew calendar, or anything related to the events mentioned in the Bible. The wisdom and knowledge associated with the Hebrew calendar is much more ancient than the Hebrews. There were many blood moons before their calendar was written! My work had nothing to do with anything related to anything in history, or mankind's relationship with past religions, beliefs or philosophies. It was about forging new grounds completely unrelated to the past."

What? I wasn't exactly sure what that meant, but I added it to my journal.

On June 12, 2014, I performed my third full moon meditation. Since the planet Mercury was retrograde in my astrology sign of Cancer, I decided to return to the Transfiguration of Christ mountain where I had performed the first 36 meditations at the beginning of the Transfiguration of Christ chapter.

The latitude was $W112^{\circ}01'42.24''$ and the actual longitude was $N33^{\circ}33'33.12''$.

The Blue Dot Marks the Spot.

Due to the fact that I hadn't had much sleep in the last week or so, and the evening temperatures hovered around the 100° mark, I took my time making my way to the top of the mountain. I didn't want to push my stressed out body over the edge, or my heart too much, too quickly. As I made my way to the top of the mountain my feet felt like they had 100lb ankle weights strapped around each ankle.

By the time I reached the top of the mountain I was completely out of breath. I sat down next to the quartz crystals that were embedded in the top of the mountain and waited a few minutes for my heart rate to return to normal.

Once my heart rate returned to normal, I placed a 4" ball made of glass in the middle of the quartz crystals.

I faced West and chanted the following phrase three times:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

I then faced North and repeated the same phrase three more times:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

Then East:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

And then finally South.

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

The sun finally disappeared. On a night when the rest of the world went crazy from the power of the full moon, I performed my third full moon meditation.

We thank you for blessing us with a loving heart, intelligent mind, and willful spirit that we may now go forward and serve you and every living creature on the earth, and throughout the universe. Thank you for opening our hearts, our minds, souls and spirits to your infinite unconditional love and compassion. With sincere gratitude and appreciation, Amen."

My hope was that my meditation would somehow relieve some of the craziness and darkness that was taking place in the world, and bring about new hope, and a new beginning.

Once I completed my meditation I made my way back down the mountain. Shortly afterward the full moon appeared over the eastern horizon.

Using my glass ball as a lens, I took the following photographs of the full moon.

And with that the third full moon meditation was now behind me. It was now time to prepare for the next full moon scheduled to take place on July 12, 2014 at 3:26 AM, Arizona time.
