The Transfiguration of Christ

A couple of weeks after my 52nd birthday, and after completing 72 Days of Angels and The Brotherhood of Light, a friend of mine and I decided to take a hike during sunset at Dreamy Draw Park, a park located on the northeast side of Phoenix.

During our hike, we happened upon a small cave, which I thought was very interesting, but at the same time a little strange. As we continued our trek to the top of the mound directly over the cave, we came to a pinnacle that was embedded with rose quartz crystals.

As soon as I stepped onto the crystals, I received a download from the heavens that this was a very significant location for me. Instantly, I began invoking the Christ, or Creator Consciousness. My initial thought was, "Oh no! Not again! Another journey!" As I was doing this my friend and I took in the most beautiful sunset, which at the time felt very magical. Once the sun disappeared behind the horizon, we hiked back down the mountain, and back to our vehicle.

After I returned home, I got online and consulted with Google Earth to check out the coordinates of the location. The mound was located at 33.33° longitude, 112° latitude. When I noticed the numbers in the coordinates, I knew something was afoot...

As I continued my investigation into the location, I came across the following YouTube video explaining the history of the park. (In order to connect to the video you'll need an Internet connection.)

Over the next few days, while contemplating everything that I had discovered, I started receiving visions that I was to return to this location on a regular basis to do various meditations, prayers, and some spiritual exercises. Beyond that, I couldn't be sure exactly what would take place during these prayers, or if anything would take place at all.

Coincidentally, I had received an inheritance a couple of months earlier. After paying some bills and buying some new clothes, I decided to treat myself to a brand new camera. Since I had used up my old camera during my previous journey, I was very excited and grateful to have a new camera to use on this latest adventure.

On August 22, 2013, I received a text message from Ahote and Tuwa at Hopi, asking me to come up and take photographs of their crops for them. In the spirit of sharing without conditions, I decided that I would set out for Hopi during the afternoon of August 27.

That morning, before I departed for Hopi, I was awakened abruptly by a power outage. I knew the power had gone out when the temperature started rising in my small studio apartment.

I walked outside to investigate the power outage, and that's when I saw my friend the Hawk sitting next to a telephone pole directly beside my apartment. I instantly ran inside, grabbed my new camera and took the following photograph.

I had not been visited by a Hawk in over five months, since my return to Phoenix in March 2013. Since I was scheduled to leave for Hopi several hours later, I knew that the Hawk had returned to initiate my return to Hopi, and the start of my next journey.

I arrived at Hopi that afternoon and was given room number 123 at the Cultural Center; this was another excellent sign for me.

I spent the next couple of days taking photographs of Ahote's fantastic garden.

During my visit with Ahote and Tuwa, Ahote asked me if I was still doing my prayers. I informed him that I had finished my last journey on my 52nd birthday, but was about to embark on an entirely new project where I would be invoking the Creator Consciousness, and attempting to communicate with angels on a very physical level. He just looked at me and smiled.

After taking photographs of Ahote's garden, Tuwa prepared dinner for us in their home in their village on the Second Mesa. It was a charming, peaceful visit.

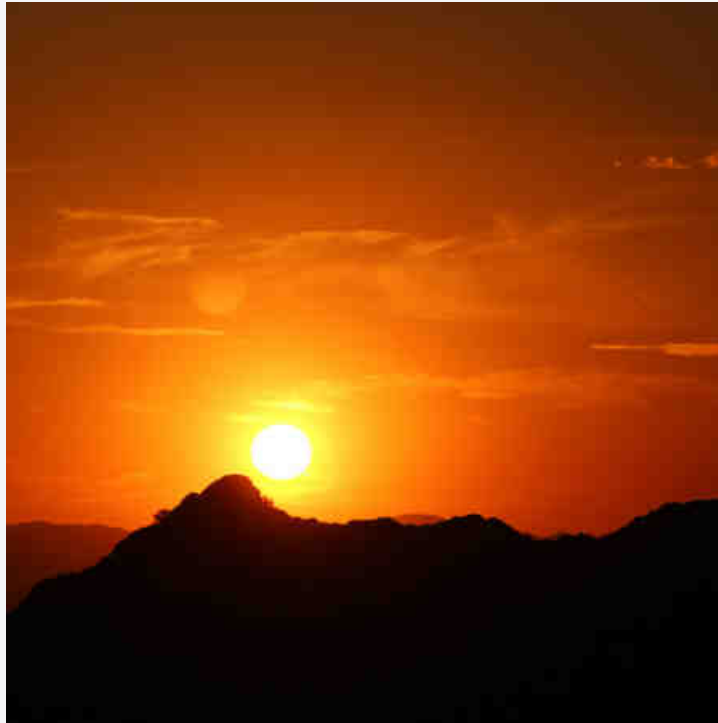

The following morning I said good-bye to Ahote and Tuwa and the Second Mesa...

And I returned to Phoenix. I spent the next week working on the startup of "The Transfiguration of Christ" chapter.

Introduction

I had to start out this journey admitting the fact that every time I embarked on one of these adventures in the past, I always felt a little foolish and uncertain about what I was doing, and why I was doing it. This adventure was no different.

I had no idea what was compelling me to embark on a journey titled, The Transfiguration of Christ. All I knew was that once I received the challenge to take such a trip, I had to follow through. One thing was for sure. I always made a conscious effort to check in with myself to make sure that what I was doing was of the Light. Otherwise, I wouldn't accept the challenge.

While listening carefully to my discernment and inner guidance, I heard that I should initiate this particular journey right before sunset on Wednesday, September 4, 2013, right before the start of the Jewish holiday, Rosh Hashanah. Why? I wasn't exactly sure.

And so on September 4, 2013, at approximately 5:30 PM I left my apartment and set out for Dreamy Draw Park. Once I arrived in the park, I parked my van in the parking lot and began my hike to the top of the mountain where I was lead to perform my first meditation.

As I approached the bottom of the steep incline leading up to the top of the mound, I took a moment to pause and ask the ancestors of the land for permission to enter. Once I felt that I received approval, I began my ascent to the top of the mound.

Midway up the mound I couldn't help but notice the sun, or the Light, peering over the crest of the mound as if to greet me with a warm welcome.

And soon as I reached the top, I noticed that someone had left behind the words, "Love U Mom" in the middle of the trail. The letters were laid out with small, quartz crystals.

Immediately, I reflected on March 18, 2010, during the 72 Days of God chapter.

Back in 2010 during a hike in Big Bend National Park in southern Texas, I paused and wrote in the sand the message, "Mom- Send Money." I had addressed the message to my mom who had passed away ten years earlier to Parkinson's Disease, asking her spirit to send me somehow enough money to finance my 72 Days of God journey. Even though it had only been three, short years since I had written that message in the sand, it felt more like a lifetime ago.

Suddenly, out of the blue, I could feel my mother's spirit surrounding me once again, and the words "Love U Mom" which had been written with the crystals, felt more like a direct message from my mother's spirit, saying: "Love you! - Mom." It was very comforting.

After I got over the excitement of the message, I looked around and noticed a few yards to my north the large, quartz crystals that were embedded deeply into the top of the mountain. These were the crystals that I had discovered several weeks earlier, that inspired me to take this journey.

I walked over to where the large crystals were located, searched my pockets, and pulled out a dime and a nickel. I placed both coins on top of the crystal to leave as an offering and then said a quick prayer of gratitude.

Afterward, I planted my feet firmly on the crystals, grounding myself to the top of the mountain, and to Mother Earth.

While facing west, I could see that the sun was now beginning to set. It was at this point that I prepared for my first invocation.

At approximately 3 minutes and 33 seconds before sunset, taking the time to face all four directions, I initiated my journey:

Once my invocation was complete, I descended the mountain, returned to my vehicle, and spent the next several days waiting for further guidance.

Rewind: On July 23, 2013, the day after my 52nd birthday, and the day after finishing, "72 Days of Angels and The Brotherhood of Light", I began attending an eight-week course titled, "The Power of Kabbalah 1."

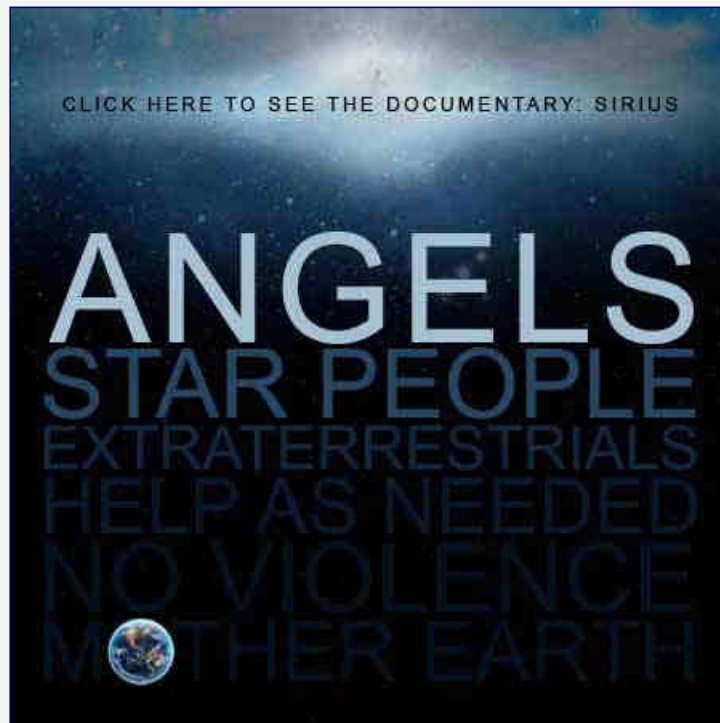

Since I had just come off a 3.5-year journey using Kabbalah's 72 Names of God angel meditations, which I did without first studying Kabbalah, I thought the timing was right for me to take a closer look at Kabbalah. Since the class was offered to Phoenix residents for free, I figured I had nothing to lose, and everything to gain. I completed the eight-week course on September 10, 2013.

After completing my class, and while contemplating whether or not I would continue with the second class, The Power of Kabbalah 2, I began doing some investigating online.

One of the things that I learned during the first class was that my birthday, July 22, 1961, fell on the 9th of Av. I wanted to know more about this date and found an article published on the LiveKabbalah.org website: (Google this article and read it before you continue.)

Parts of the article sounded a little bleak to me, but I wasn't sure what it all meant. While I was reading the article, I couldn't help but think back to February 2010, when I began my 72 Days of God journey. I had suffered from a mild case of plantar fasciitis, which later turned into problems with my sciatica. And as of September 2013, it had still not gone away. I found this very interesting since this had been mentioned in the article above. After I read the article about the 9th of Av, I then looked up my Correction, or Tikkun, which I discovered was in Leo. (You can Google this information, as well.) I found all of the information to be very interesting and enlightening.

And then I watched a documentary titled, "Sirius."

On September 13, the eve of Yom Kippur, I returned to the mountain for my second invocation.

This time I approached the pinnacle from the west side of the mound. As I began my ascent, I could see the moon positioned directly above the top of the mountain.

A few steps further I passed by the cave, which was located directly under the pinnacle.

Once I reached the top, I took a few moments to take in my surroundings. I noticed that the moon was located directly to my south.

I then noticed that since my first visit back on September 4, the “Love U Mom” message that had been written with crystals had been trampled on and was now starting to fade.

The two coins that I had left behind as an offering during my first invocation back on September 4 had been moved and someone had added another dime to the collection.

With little time to waste I faced the sun in the west...

Made sure that my feet were planted firmly on the crystals located on top of the mound...

and performed my second invocation, just as the sun began to set.

When I was done, I made my way back down the mountain, and back to the parking lot.

Once I reached the parking lot, I noticed two bright lights in the western sky. I consulted the ©Google Sky Map application on my smartphone and discovered that the most brilliant light of the two was Venus, and the duller light was Saturn.

I then left Dreamy Draw park and headed home.

That night, before turning off my smartphone and going to bed, I consulted ©Google Sky Map once again. I noticed that while the moon was about to set over the horizon in the west, the Orion Nebula and the three stars in Orion's Belt were rising over the horizon in the east. I once again took a moment to reflect on my various journey's and my connection with those three stars.

Coupled with the earlier sighting of Venus, I couldn't help but feel as though the cosmos were trying to communicate with me on a deep level. I fell asleep a few moments later.

Several hours later I had the following dream:

In my dream, I was sitting across a large, wooden table from a native American man (Hopi?) who had long, braided hair and olive skin. On the table directly in front of me was a book or piece of art, and coming out of this book or piece of art were the voices of native American's singing at the top of their lungs. The man sitting across the table from me looked directly into my eyes and said, "Listen! They approve of what you're doing!" Keep doing it. The man then got up from his chair, walked around the table to where I was sitting, and kissed me on the mouth. Suddenly, I was jolted from my dream by a loud noise coming from my bedroom. When I woke up, I could still feel the presence of the Native American that was in my dream but could not figure out what caused the noise. Strangely, I was not frightened. I noticed that the time on the clock was 4:05 AM, and then fell back to sleep.

On Monday, September 16, I decided that I would not continue with the Kabbalah classes or any other classes for that matter during my journey. I did this primarily to prevent anyone from saying that the actions that I took during my trip were influenced by any group of people, other than myself. I wanted to make sure that I was utterly accountable for any actions that I took during my journey.

As I approached the top of the mound from the west, I took the following photograph.

As soon as I reached the top of the mound, I was paid a visit by my friend, the Hawk. It paused directly overhead, looked straight down at me and then flew off to the east.

I turned towards the sun and once again performed the meditation that had been passed on to me during the journey, 72 Days of Angels and The Brotherhood of Light.

As soon as the sunset in the west, the moon appeared over the horizon in the east. I spent the next hour taking photographs of this beautiful event.

I finished my hike with a snapshot of Venus...

and then returned home. I spent the next several days waiting for more inspiration and direction.

On Friday, September 27, halfway through my 30-minute elliptical workout at my gym, I finally began receiving insight as to what my journey could be about, and what I was supposed to do. I spent the next several days putting all of the details in order. I decided that my journey would begin on Friday, October 4, 2013, during the New Moon, which was scheduled to occur at 5:34 PM, Phoenix, Arizona time.

The following page lists several clues as to what is involved in this journey.

On the morning of September 18, I decided to check in with www.spaceweather.com to see what was going on in the heavens. Posted on the home page of their website were a photograph and an article about comet ISON. The comet was scheduled to flyby Mars on October 1, before continuing its journey towards the Sun. I couldn't help but notice the symbol of the cross in the photograph on the left.

A second article foretold of a full Moon rising in the east later on in the day, at sunset. Known as the "Harvest Moon," this particular full Moon was given that name because it was closest to the autumnal equinox. When I learned of this, I knew it was time for me to return to my place on the mountain for my third and final invocation.

After I looked through all of my usual morning website's, I received a text message from a friend asking me to run her daily numerology report. After I sent the report to her, I was then prompted to check my own. Using the Pythagorean system, I discovered that it was a very significant day. My Personal Year was the number 8; my Personal Month was number 8, and my Personal Day was number 8. (888) I thought to myself; I've hit the jackpot!

That afternoon, while swimming laps, I suddenly could hear my mother's voice over and over again in my head. She kept saying, "Don't ever forget that your blood type is O-negative." It was something that my mother used to tell me quite often when I was a child. I had no clue as to why that particular memory began running through my head all of a sudden, but when I got home I did some research online, and it wasn't long before I discovered some interesting theories:

Rh- Characteristics

It has been said by some, that there are certain noticeable characteristics that a majority of people with Rh Negative Blood seem to share in common. This list has NOT been created by us, but rather it is a cumulative list of the more popular ones that have been circulating online for many years.

- A feeling of not belonging
- Truth seekers
- A sense of a "Mission" in life
- Empathy & Compassion for Mankind
- An extra rib or vertebra.
- Higher than average IQ
- ESP Ability
- Love of Space & Science
- More sensitive vision & other senses.
- Increased of psychic/intuitive abilities
- Cannot be cloned
- Lower body temperature
- Higher blood pressure (some say lower)
- Predominantly blue, green, or Hazel eyes
- Red or reddish tint to hair color
- Increased sensitivity to heat & sunlight
- Unexplained Scares
- Piercing Eyes
- Tend to be Healers
- Empathetic Illnesses
- Ability to disrupt electrical devices
- Prone to Alien Abductions
- Experience unexplained phenomenon
- Physic Dreams and Ability

As all of the new information swirled around in my head, I set out for Dreamy Draw Park and the task of performing my third invocation. My journey officially began on Friday, October 4, 2013.

Back on September 29, 2012, during Day 52 of the 72 Days of Angels and The Brotherhood of Light chapter, I came upon the following piece of wood, which to me resembled a cross. I was immediately drawn to this cross and placed it on a chain hanging from my vehicles rear view mirror.

On the first official day of my new journey, I removed the cross from my rear view mirror, which I had been carrying around with me for over a year, and brought it with me to the top of the mountain. As soon as I reached the top, I placed the cross in between two rocks, marking this place as the starting point of my journey.

Once again, I was surrounded by numbers 1, 2 & 3. The latitude was  $W112^{\circ}01'42.24''$ , and the actual longitude was  $N33^{\circ}33'33.12''$ , which was not revealed on the following map.

Google Maps 2012

I then removed some stones that I had collected during my last journey and placed them on top of the quartz crystals embedded on top of the mountain. Each stone represented a different direction: North, East, South, and West.

North | East | South | West

After retrieving several additional items that had been given to me by Hopi, I began my journey.

I faced West and chanted the following phrase three times:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

I then faced North and repeated the same phrase three more times:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

Then East:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

And then finally South.

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

Taking into account that I was located in the same area of the map on the left as the Hopi, I sat down on top of the quartz crystals and began my meditation and prayers. This is where my journey began, and over the next thirty-six days, my journey of prayers and meditations would take me around the Earth.

I hope that you will read and experience the first 36 days of prayers and meditations and that you will join along with me in sending out the energy of Unconditional Love to the areas highlighted on each map of each day.

When we are joined as one our intentions and expressions of Unconditional Love, have the potential to change the world for the better.

Additionally, it needs to be noted that while I use various items from the Hopi and use Hopi as a point of reference while performing my meditations, at no point have I ever received any direction or guidance from anyone at Hopi. The source of my meditations came directly from my higher self, and as far as I know are not related to any Hopi traditions, ceremonies, or rituals. I hold a tremendous amount of respect for the Hopi and my knowledge of the Hopi ways is very minimal.

As I began my journey I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, all the way from the North Pole to the South Pole, between the Latitude W110° - W120°;

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 1: Latitude W110° - W120° | the Arctic Ocean – Canada – United States – Mexico – North Pacific Ocean – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if deemed appropriate.

Once my initial meditation was complete, I closed out the ceremony with gratitude and the mantra;

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

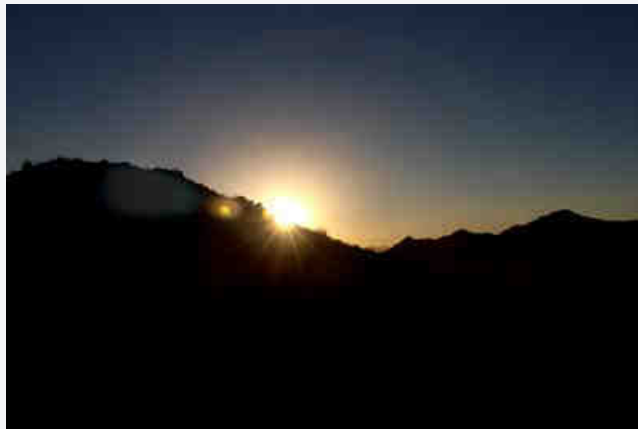

I then gathered my things and headed back down the mountain, taking photographs of things that caught my eyes along the way.

Three Pyramids of Giza?

Me and My Shadow

Sun rays

I noticed that Venus appeared brightly in the evening sky to my west.

Venus circled in red.

And with that the first day of my journey was complete.

As I began my hike to the top of the mound on the second day of my journey, I sensed a wave of unconditional love and harmony wash over me. I kept repeating my mantra...

The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.

as I hiked up the mountain.

As I approached the top of the mound, I could see the wooden cross that I had left the day before. I noticed that image of the cross was also mirrored in the cliffs down below.

When I reached the top, I noticed that the wooden cross was as I had left it the day before, which made me very happy.

As I prepared for my meditations and prayers, I noticed that a few American Indians were hiking on the trails down below. I saw that there were three females and one young male. I knew that this was significant in some mysterious way. I acknowledged their presence.

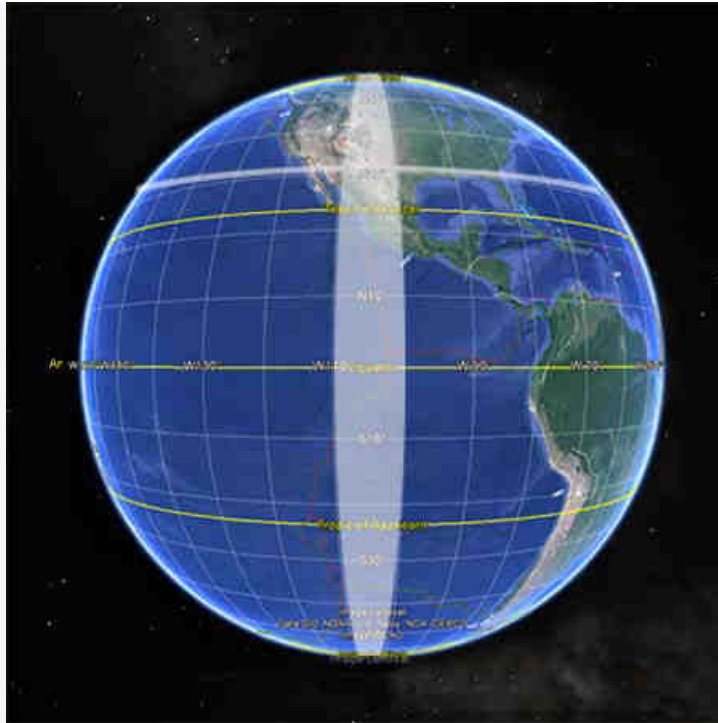

I then took a few moments to take in my surroundings...

and then grounded myself to the quartz crystals embedded into the top of the mountain. I greeted each direction with my mantra and then sat down to begin my second meditation. Using my smartphone, I played the following video in the background:

As I started my meditation, I used the Hopi rattle that had been gifted to me a few weeks earlier. Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole, between the Latitude W110° - W100°;

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

Once my meditation was complete, I gathered my things and headed back down the mountain. I exited the south face of the mountain, towards the main trail.

At one point I passed a senior woman who appeared to be a little overweight. My first thought was how strange it was that a woman of her age and size was able to climb the mountain. As I walked by her, I said hello. She looked directly into my eyes, smiled and stared a hole right through me. I could tell that she was of Native American descent. She had the most beautiful, round, brown face. I walked a few steps further, turned back around to look at her again, and she had disappeared.

As I walked back to my vehicle, I kept looking back to the place that I had seen the senior woman, to see if perhaps my eyes had been playing tricks on me. I never saw her again. I was left with a very eerie feeling.

As I returned to my vehicle, I looked to the west and noticed that the planet Venus was beginning to appear again in the evening sky.

Day 2 of my prayers and meditations was now complete.

On this particular day, I decided to approach the top of the mountain from the south. It was a beautiful, clear day.

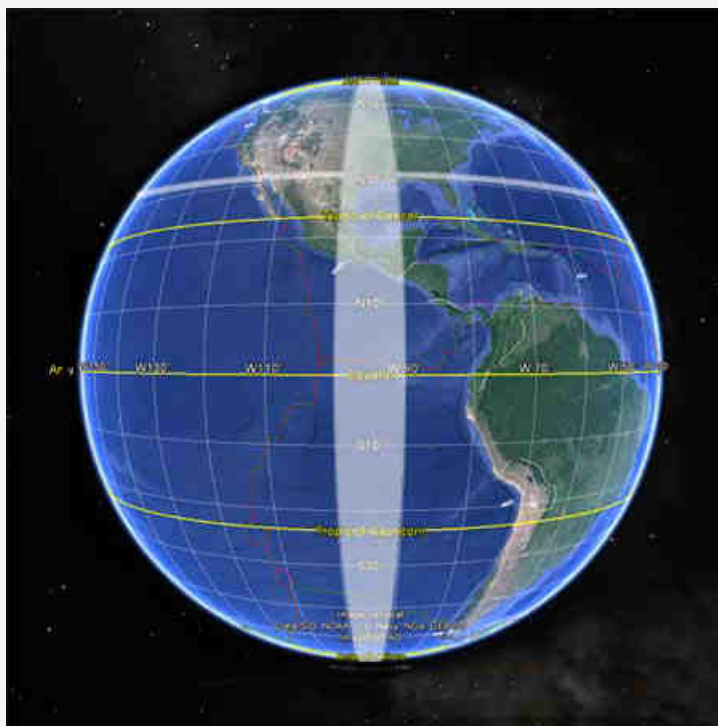

As I got closer to my place of meditation, I noticed that the wooden cross was still in place. Since I knew that a lot of people visited this particular spot in Dreamy Draw Park, I felt like it was just a matter of time before someone removed the cross and did something with it. I hoped that it would remain in place throughout my journey.

Once I reached my place of meditation, I set up everything for my meditation and proceeded to invoke the four directions with the mantra:

*The Father and I are one.

I then sat down and began my meditation. Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W100° and W90°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

After I completed my meditation, I decided to invoke the four directions once again, this time sending healing prayers for several friends and family members in all four directions.

When everything was complete, I headed back down the mountain, exiting towards the West. I took the following photographs.

Day 3 of my prayers and meditations was now complete.

On this particular day, I arrived at the park a little early, so I could explore sections of the park that I had not explored previously. During my hike, I discovered some rock that was covered in several different colors of moss. I was captivated by the natural beauty. It looked like an abstract painting.

Moss #1

Moss #2

Moss #3

While taking photographs of the moss, I also discovered the most interesting rock, which I decided to place on the ground where I performed my meditations and prayers.

I removed the stones from my bag and placed them on top of the new rock as I prepared for Day 4 of my meditations.

I looked over to my North and noticed that the wooden cross was still exactly where I had left it on Day 1.

I invoked the four directions and then sat down to begin my meditation. Directly in front of me, someone had scratched out the shape of a heart onto a nearby rock. After reviewing some of the videos taken during the introduction of my journey, I noticed that the heart had been there all along, since the beginning.

For some strange, I was prompted to look directly overhead, and so I took the following photo.

What do you see?

I then began my meditation and prayer.

Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W90° and W80°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. Local Planetary Hour: 5:05 – 6:03 PM | Moon

On this particular day, I decided that I would approach the top of the mountain using the same path that I used to exit it the day before. As I approached the mountain, I noticed two young male figures crouching down in the mouth of the cave below the place where I performed my meditations. Perhaps these two were my guardians for the day.

When I reached the top of the mountain, I noticed that the wooden cross that I had planted in the rock on the first day of my journey, was now leaning towards the East. I made a mental note of this as I prepared to begin my meditation.

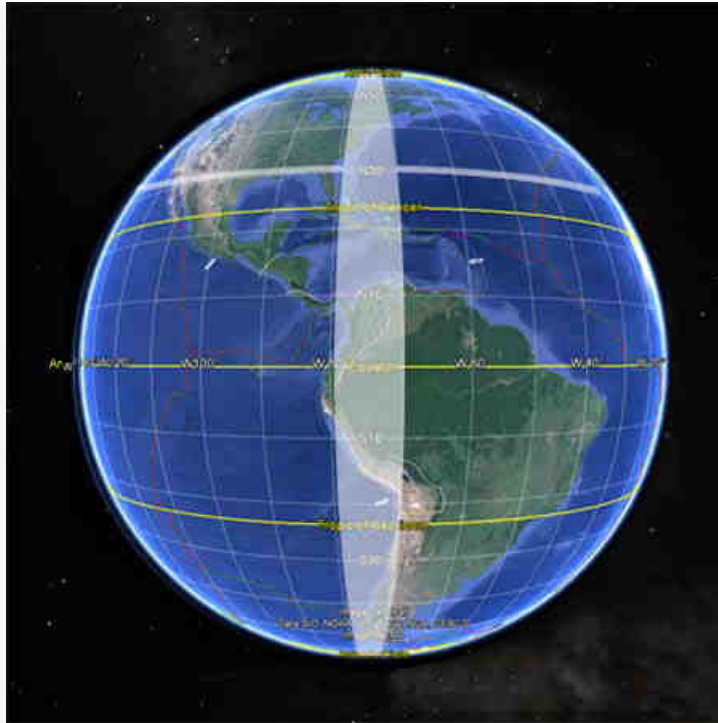

I retrieved my stones and rattle from my camera bag and noticed that the feather that was glued to the top of the rattle had become unattached. Realizing that everything happens for a reason, I held the feather in front of the sun and blessed it with a special prayer.

While holding on to the feather, I then sat down and began my meditation. On the planetary day of Mars, under the planetary hour of the Moon, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude  $W80^{\circ}$  and  $W70^{\circ}$ , all the way from the North Pole, down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 5: Latitude W80° - W70° | Arctic Ocean – Greenland – Canada – United States – Washington, DC – Washington, DC – Washington, DC – Atlantic Ocean – The Bahamas – Cuba – Turks and Caicos Islands – Dominican Republic – Haiti – Jamaica – Caribbean Sea – Aruba – Panama – North Pacific Ocean – Columbia – Venezuela – Ecuador – Peru – Chile – Argentina – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

For some reason, I was asked to repeat Washington, DC three times during this invocation.

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

During my meditation, I couldn't help but notice a young gentlemen sitting on a nearby ledge. (See the image below) I wasn't exactly sure what he was doing, or why he had chosen to sit so close to me during my ceremony, but I was grateful for his companionship. He had a very non-intrusive energy about him, which I liked.

Since I had included "I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey, if they deemed it appropriate." in my daily meditation, I had to keep an open mind to the fact that these so-called, "visitors" like the young gentlemen in the image below were actually from this world.

Something very unusual took place during this particular meditation, that had not taken place during the first four. As soon as I began my invocation, the wind picked up considerably, and it blew with tremendous force throughout the entire ceremony. When I got to the part of my meditation where I prayed for a significant re-balancing of the integrity of the United States government, the wind blew fiercely. As I felt the wind blow my prayers became more intense. When I thought that the timing was right, I released the feather that I had been holding onto and allowed the wind to carry it off in the direction of the East, the same direction in which the wooden cross was leaning. I couldn't explain it, but I felt as though some shift had just taken place.

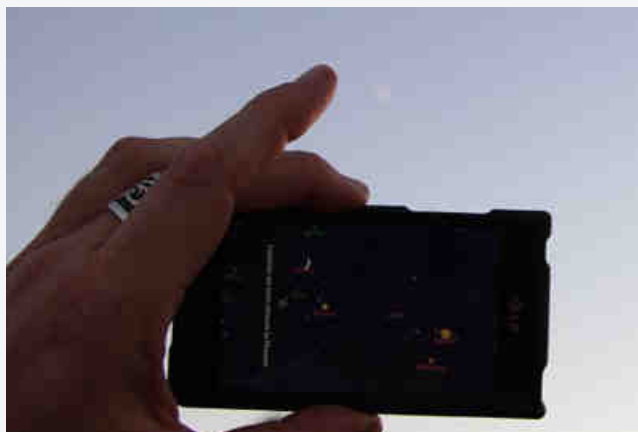

As soon as my meditation was over the wind turned into a very gentle breeze. I sat quietly and gazed at the sun, and allowed my mind to go completely blank. A few moments later, as I began to pack up my things, a half-naked runner appeared on the scene. He took a moment to catch his breath as he reached the top of the mountain, and then took off down the mountain directly in front of me. For me, this was a very positive sign of renewed health and virility.

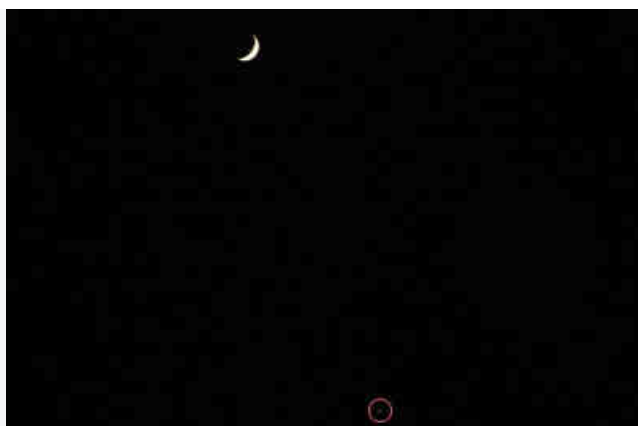

As the sun continued to set, I walked over to the wooden cross and propped it back in place, by reinforcing the base with additional stones.

I then began to make my way down the mountain. Using the "Google Sky Map" app on my smartphone, I noticed that Saturn and Mercury now accompanied the Moon and Venus. Although these planets were not visible to the naked eye, it felt great knowing that the worlds were present during my invocation and prayer.

As I left Dreamy Draw Park, I couldn't help but notice how bright and clear the Moon and Venus had become in the night sky. Venus sparkled brilliantly.

Moon and Venus

Later that evening a friend of mine sent me a text message informing me that he had a dream about me the night before.

He wrote:

"Lots of white, you turned into an owl and stopped by a river. Next to the river was a tree with no leaves. I watched you from across the river. You tuned into a stoned owl while you were perched on the tree, and blended in with the tree and the rock wall in the background. I flew towards you, and when I got to where you were sitting, you had moved to the other side of the river. I could still see you off in the distance. I then flew in that direction. We never were on the same side of the river at the same time. You were gone each time that I arrived; I would always see you from a distance. Everything was white during the whole dream, even the owl. We both could fly."

And with that, Day 5 of my journey was complete.

As soon as I approached the top of the mountain, I could see that the wooden cross was missing. After a closer inspection, I also determined that someone had removed it. I knew this was true because the rocks that I used to reinforce it were missing, too.

I searched the area to see if it had been laid on the ground somewhere, but I couldn't find it. I prayed that whoever took it, received some blessing, or healing from it. I concluded that perhaps that person needed it for some reason, and released it unconditionally.

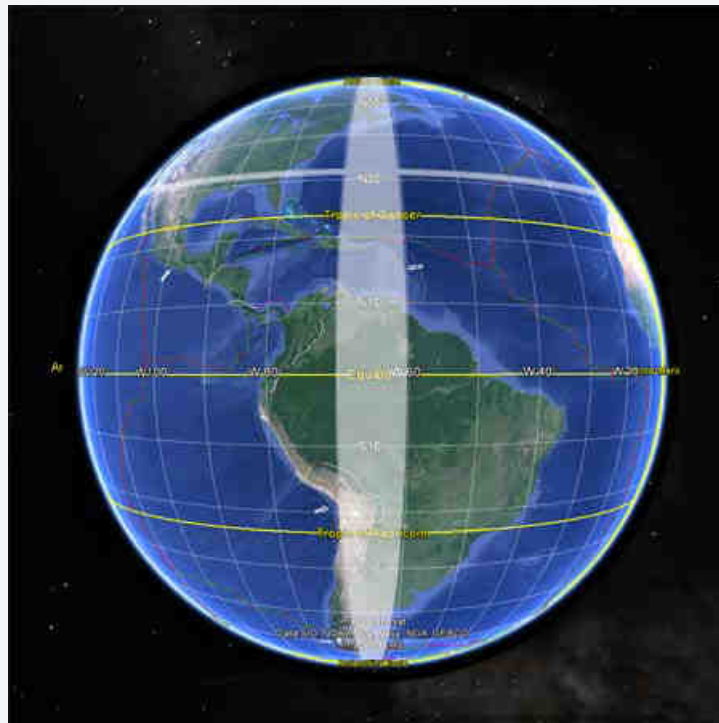

As I gathered my things to begin the next meditation I had a tough time keeping everything in from blowing away. I had to get up several times to retrieve my hat and my camera bag, which kept blowing down the east face of the mountain. To say it was a windy day was an understatement.

With everything finally held in place with rocks, I invoked the four directions and began my meditation.

Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W70° and W60°, all the way from the North Pole, down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 6: Latitude W70° - W60° | Arctic Ocean - Greenland - Canada - United States - North Atlantic Ocean - Bermuda - Dominican Republic - Puerto Rico - Caribbean Sea - Virgin Islands - British Virgin Islands - Anguilla - St. Maarten - Antigua and Barbuda - Montserrat - Guadeloupe - Dominica - Martinique - Saint Lucia - Saint Vincent and the Grenadines - Grenada - Trinidad and Tobago - Aruba - Curacao - Venezuela - Columbia - Guyana - Brazil-Bolivia - Peru - Chile - Paraguay - Argentina - Falkland Islands - South Atlantic Ocean - Southern Ocean - Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

Once my meditation was complete I continued to remain seated while facing the fierce wind. As an experiment, I asked the wind to blow more gently, and suddenly the strong winds stopped. I then asked the wind to blow freely, and it started up again. I repeated this exercise several times, and each time the wind seemed to cooperate with me. It was a fantastic experience.

As the sun continued to set it occurred to me that I should replace the wooden cross with a new one. I got up from where I was sitting and began searching for materials to construct an alternative. It wasn't long before I came up with the following cross made out of a wooden stick, and a fragile branch from a sagebrush. Both were so thin that even the strong winds did not affect it. I couldn't help but wonder how long this cross would last.

I then turned my attention back towards the sun and watched it disappear behind the horizon.

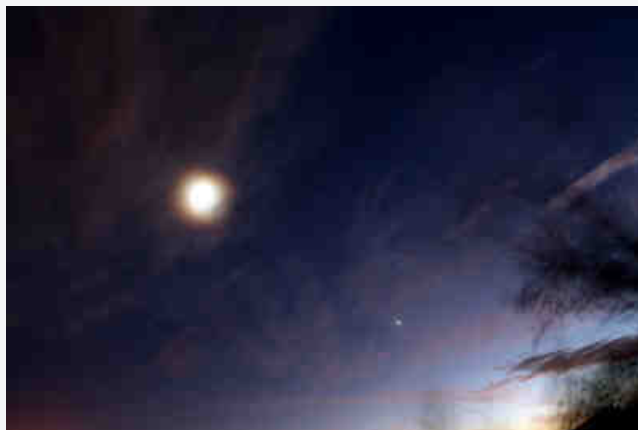

After I expressed my gratitude to Mother Earth, the Solar System and the Universe and all of the elements, I left my place of meditation. As soon as I was leaving a young couple showed up to take in the view of the evening sky. For me, this signified a complete balance of feminine and masculine energy.

And just like clockwork, as I returned to my vehicle, the Moon and Venus showed up in all of their glory.

Day 6 of my journey was now complete.

As I began my hike to the top of the mountain, I discovered a stunning, diamond-shaped, quartz crystal sitting in the middle of the trailhead. An inner voice instructed me to bend down and pick it up. After a closer inspection, I could see that this new stone made a perfect addition to my collection of rocks used in my meditations. I placed the new stone in my bag along with the others and continued on my hike.

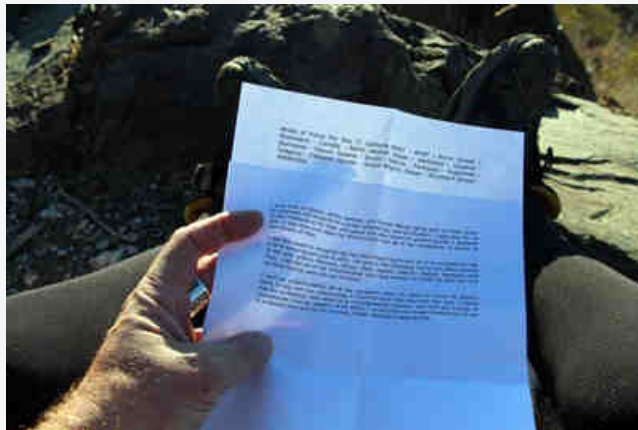

Once I reached the top of the mountain, I noticed that the wooden cross that I had erected the day before was still in place. And beside it were two small butterflies. I wanted to take a photograph of the butterflies, but they flew away before I could ready my camera.

I took a moment to consult the "Google Sky Map" app on my smartphone to see which planets were present for my meditation. Saturn, Mercury, Venus, and the Sun were attending in the West, Pluto and the Moon were in the South, while Neptune sat quietly in the East.

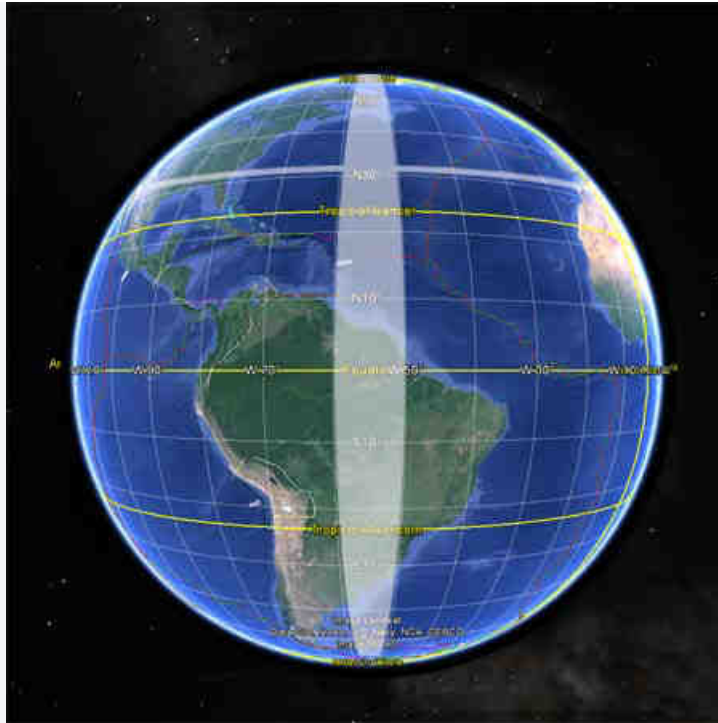

As I began to set up my stones for my meditation, I added the new crystal in with the others and was very happy with the results.

After invoking the four directions, I sat down and began my meditation. After consulting my local calendar, I learned that this particular meditation took place during the Planetary Day Jupiter, and the Planetary Hour of Mercury.

I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W60° and W50°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

Once my meditation was over, I then began with my daily prayers. Once I finished with my prayers, I faced the Sun and quietly took in my surroundings.

This day, unlike the day before, was very quiet and peaceful. A very gentle breeze blew across the desert; it was barely noticeable. The temperature was a pleasant 71°, and there was not a cloud in the sky. Everything felt perfect.

While watching people walk on the path down below...

I turned around and noticed a guy on his mountain bike sitting on top of the ledge behind me.

A few moments later a jogger appeared on the very same ledge, entirely out of breath. After taking a minute to catch his breath, he then began his quick descent down the mountain directly in front of me.

Another five minutes passed, and a couple did the same thing.

It was nice to know that I was not alone during my meditation.

As my focus turned away from the “human beings,” I then began noticing the various plants around me.

And then the stones. (With plants)

I then walked over to the wooden cross that I had erected the day before, and took the following close-up photograph...

before invoking the four directions and closing out my ceremony.

After I expressed my gratitude to the Creator of all things and all my relations, I headed back down the mountain. When I got back to my vehicle, I could see that the Moon and Venus (circled below) was still appearing in the evening sky.

I still had thirty more meditations to do to complete my journey, so I wondered how much longer Venus, the planet of Love, would remain in attendance.

Day 7 of my journey was complete.

On this particular day, I ran a little late getting to the park. I didn't reach the top of the mountain until 5:33 PM, which only gave me approximately thirty minutes to perform my meditation and prayers.

The first thing that I saw when I reached the top of the mountain was a mother and child. They both were facing the sun, and the mother was carrying her son on her back using a backpack designed for bearing children. The first thoughts that came to mind were 1) the bag looked heavy and awkward, and 2) it must be family night on the mountain.

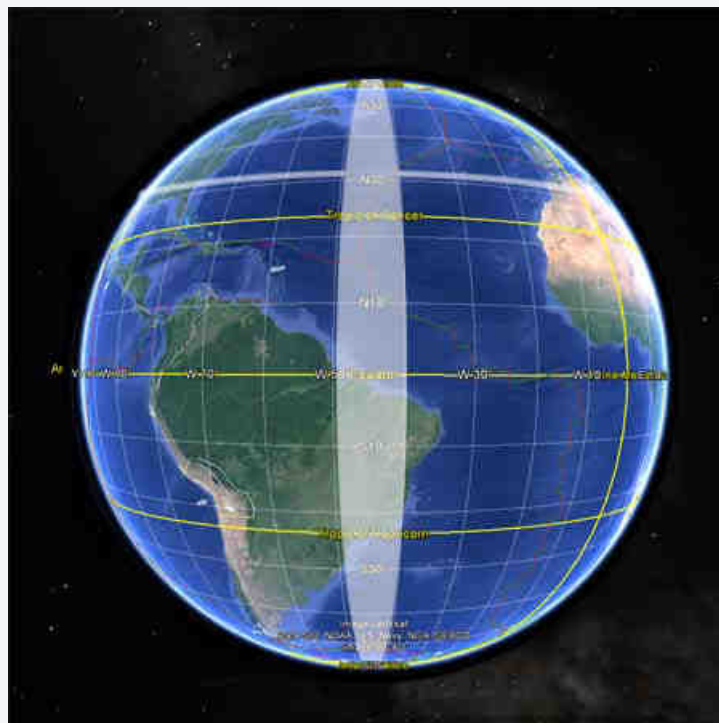

I walked over to where I had performed my first seven meditations and was happy to discover that the wooden cross that I had erected was still standing.

Wasting no time, I retrieved all of my stones and my rattle from my bag and laid everything out to begin my ceremony.

Under the Planetary Day Venus, and the Planetary Hour Jupiter, I sat down and began my meditation. I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W50° and W40°, all the way from the North Pole, down to the South Pole:

Once my meditation was over, I then prayed for renewed health for several friends and family members.

No sooner than had I finished my prayers; a family paraded by consisting of a mother, father, and two small children. It was indeed family night on top of the mountain.

After I finished my prayers, I gathered my things and began my hike down the mountain, taking the following photographs along the way.

Messenger From The Gods

Wren offers the following medicine or wisdom according to Native American traditions:

- Messenger from the Gods
- Sibling (brother/sister) relationships

Under the Planetary Day Saturn, and the Planetary Hour Venus, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W40° and W30°, all the way from the North Pole, down to the South Pole:

I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

On this particular day, I sent out some extra powerful prayers for various friends and family members who were struggling with multiple issues and ailments. I then stretched out across a flat surface and stared up at the clear, blue sky. My thoughts just drifted off into space. I let it all go.

A few minutes later I pulled myself up, faced the sun and closed out my ceremony. I then gathered my things and headed back down the mountain. During my exit, I walked past a huge rock that looked like a massive chunk of petrified wood. I had walked past this rock several times during my journey but had never once noticed it before. I made a mental note to revisit the rock soon, to take a closer look.

Right before I returned to my vehicle, I noticed a Dragonfly holding on to the branch of a tree. I shot the following photograph, and then touched one of its wings to make sure that it was still alive. Suddenly, after I felt it, it took flight and landed on a different tree nearby.

Dragonfly

According to Native American traditions, Dragonfly brought the following wisdom or medicine:

- Mastery of life on the wing
- Power of flight
- Power to escape a blow
- Understanding dreams
- Power of light
- Breaking down illusions
- Seeing the truth in situations
- Swiftiness
- Change
- Connection to Dragon

A few minutes later the sky turned dark, and the planet of Love appeared.

Venus

Day 10 of my meditations and prayers were complete.

Local Planetary Hour: 4:58 – 5:55 PM | Sun

I began my hike to the top of the mountain a little early on this particular day. The weather in Phoenix was perfect, and I wanted to spend as much time in nature as possible.

I took the following photographs during my hike through the desert, on my way to the top of the mountain.

When I reached the top of the mountain, I was happy to learn that the wooden cross was still sitting firmly in place.

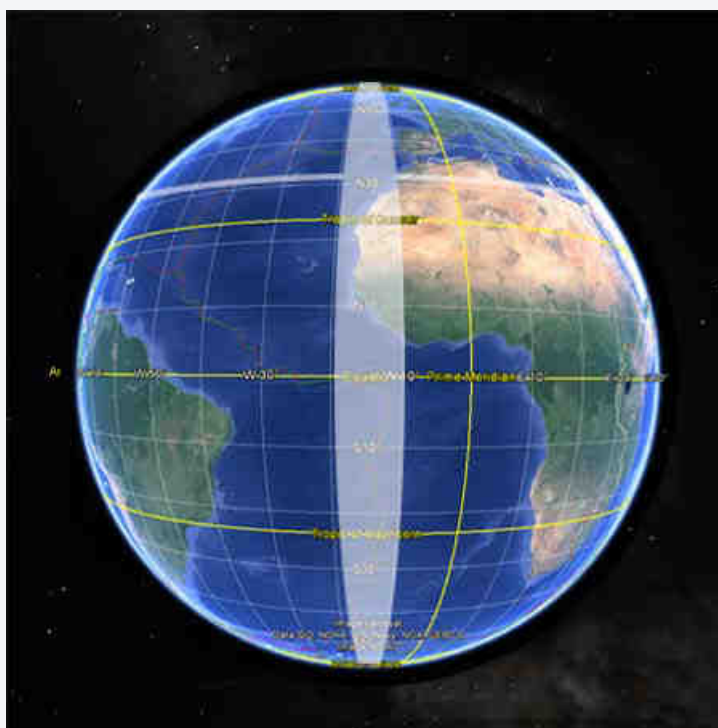

After laying down my stones...

I removed my rattle from my bag, and invoked each of the four directions by repeating the following mantra three times;

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

I sat down and began my meditation. Under the Planetary Day Moon, and the Planetary Hour Sun, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W20° and W10°, all the way from the North Pole, down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 11: Latitude W20° - W10° | Arctic Ocean – Greenland – Greenland Sea – North Atlantic Ocean – Iceland – Ireland – Morocco – Canary Islands – Western Sahara – Mauritania – Senegal – The Gambia – Mali – Guinea-Bissau – Guinea-Sierra Leone – Liberia – South Atlantic Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then prayed for healing for those that I knew were struggling with various ailments.

Once I finished my meditation and prayers I patiently waited for a new acquaintance of mine to arrive in the park. My new friend had expressed an interest in joining me on the mountain after learning about my journey during a recent conversation we had over dinner. After some careful planning, we both finally agreed that we would meet on Monday, October 14, at 5:15 PM. It was 5:15 on the dot when I noticed my new friend walking up the bike path towards the mountain.

After waving him down to get his attention, he finally recognized me and began his climb to the top. I noticed as he started his climb that he made a very conscious effort to take it very slowly. This concerned me for some reason, so I hiked down to the cave to meet him halfway.

After we reached the top of the mountain, we sat down to catch our breath, and that's when he told me that he had had a heart attack several months earlier, back in January 2013.

Considering that he had also had sharp chest pains earlier that morning, he felt like the climb was a bit risky for him. After hearing this, I couldn't believe that he took it upon himself to hike to the top of the mountain. At that point, I became very concerned for his well-being.

As we continued to catch our breath, we had a conversation about the mysteries of life and death and the greater Universe.

Suddenly, out of nowhere, I noticed several furry seeds hanging from a nearby shrub. I had been coming to this spot every day for almost two weeks, and for some reason had never noticed the seeds until that very moment. I counted them. There were thirteen seeds. I thought this was something that I needed to be aware of for some strange reason, and so I took the following photograph.

While continuing our conversation and taking in the beautiful sunset, we each made a wish as the sun completely disappeared over the horizon. After the sun sank, we began our hike down the backside of the mountain. During our walk through the desert, we shared more stories about our lives.

Halfway through our walk Venus appeared in the evening sky, and I made a point to make sure that my new friend was aware of the fact that we both had company.

Once we got back to the parking lot, I placed all of my things in my vehicle and declared Day 11 of my journey complete.

My new friend and I went to dinner.

As I removed my camera from my bag and began my walk towards the mountain, I suddenly noticed a Roadrunner dart across the path in front of me.

According to Native American traditions, Roadrunner brought the following wisdom or medicine:

- Proper use of speed
- Understanding rapid change
- Agility
- Evading capture through quickness

I immediately thought of my friend from the day before, because he had mentioned during our conversation that he had never seen a Roadrunner while living in Arizona. And since he had mentioned the Roadrunner in our discussion, I thought the sighting a little weird.

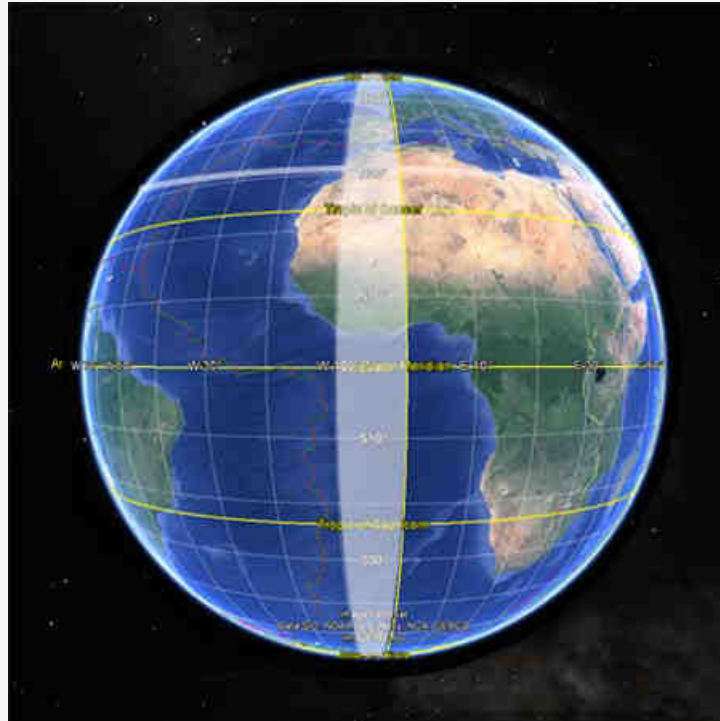

I continued my brisk hike to the top of the mountain.

Once again, when I reached the top, I noticed that the delicate wooden cross was still standing.

Wasting no time I sat down and began my meditation. Under the Planetary Day Mars, and the Planetary Hour Moon, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W10° and the Prime Meridian, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then prayed for all of my friends and family members, before laying across a large rock and shutting off my mind completely. It was now Day 12 of my journey, and I had traveled one-third of my way around the planet with my meditations and prayers.

Google Earth Map 2013

After I came out of my trance, I zoomed in on the moon with my camera and took the following photograph.

I then closed out my ceremony and headed back to my van.

My old friend, Venus, appeared in the sky as I reached the parking lot.

With three weeks and three days to go before I completed my journey – 24 days in all – I had to keep thinking of new things to do to make each day unique and a little different.

While walking towards the mountain, I was hit with a bolt of inspiration.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain

The idea that came to me was that I would continue on the bike path until I reached the western slope of the mountain, and then as soon as I hit the dirt trail, I would take a photograph of the mountain every 333 steps. Okay, it wasn't the best idea, but it was a little different.

Once I reached the western slope, I hit the dirt trail headed south. I walked 333 steps, which brought me due west of the mountain. I stopped in the middle of the path and took the following photograph.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain (From the West)

I continued on my hike. After taking another 333 steps, I ended up due south of the mountain. I stopped in the middle of the trail and made the following photograph.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain (From the South)

I then hiked to the top, which took me exactly 270 steps.

As soon as I reached the top of the mountain, I made a point to check in on the wooden cross. Everything looked fine. It continued to stand tall.

Acting quickly, I retrieved my stones from my bag, set everything out and began my ceremony.

Under the Planetary Day Mercury, and the Planetary Hour Mars, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude the Prime Meridian and E10°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 13: Latitude Prime Meridian – E10° | Arctic Ocean – Norwegian Sea – North Sea – Norway – Denmark – United Kingdom – Netherlands – Belgium – Luxemburg – Germany – France – Austria – Switzerland – Italy – Andorra – Spain – Balearic Sea – Monaco – Mediterranean Sea – Algeria – Tunisia – Libya – Mali-Niger – Burkina Faso – Ghana – Togo – Benin – Nigeria – Cameroon – Equatorial Guinea – Gabon – Bouvet Island – Gulf of Guinea – South Atlantic Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then said a sincere, heartfelt prayer for all of my friends and family members. Once I finished my prayers and meditation, I retrieved the medicine bag that my Hopi friend, Ahote had given me during the 72 Days of Angels and The Brotherhood of Light chapter.

Since it was Day 13 of my journey, I thought it would be a great time to harvest the 13 seeds...

from the nearby shrub. I walked over to the bush and began picking the seeds. I gently placed each of the 13 seeds in my medicine bag, and then walked back over to my stones and closed out my ceremony. I always made sure that I expressed my sincere gratitude to the Creator before closing out each meditation.

As I was packing up my things to leave, a family of three girls and a mother and father joined arrived on top of the mountain. The father acknowledged me and said, "Hi! You're still here! We could see you from the road as we pulled into the park." I just smiled and said, "Yeah, thanks! I've been here for a while now." At that point, they turned and set off down the mountain.

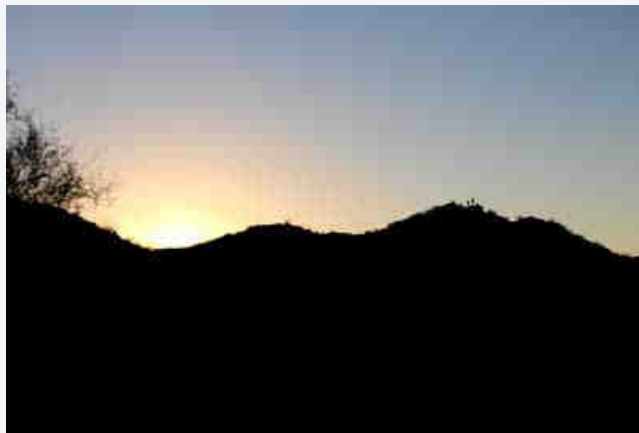

Starting with the 270 steps that it took me to get to the top, I walked 270 steps to the bottom. I then hiked an additional 333 steps from that point, which brought me to the east side of the mountain. I stopped in the middle of the trail and took the following photograph.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain (From the East)

I walked another 250 steps, until I reached the bike path, turned around and took one last photograph of the mountain; this time from the North.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain (From the North)

I finished Day 13 of my journey with another image of Venus, which had become the mascot of my adventure.

and a second time to inspect the large rock that reminded me of petrified wood. I wasn't exactly sure why I was drawn to this rock.

Once my meditation and prayers were complete, I closed out my ceremony and took the following photograph of my arm hairs. Why? I had no idea. It was just something different to do.

The Hairs On My Arm

I then quickly headed back down the mountain and thanked the Creator for another successful meditation. I finished off the day with the following images.

Protection

Venus

After I paused to take in my daily dose of planet Venus, I was able to declare that two weeks of my journey was now officially behind me.

sent out a heartfelt prayer for personal healing and a positive transformation for myself during my hike.

By the time I reached the top of the mountain, I was completely out of breath, but I could tell that my daily walks through the desert were slowly getting me back in shape. I felt great.

After checking in on the wooden cross...

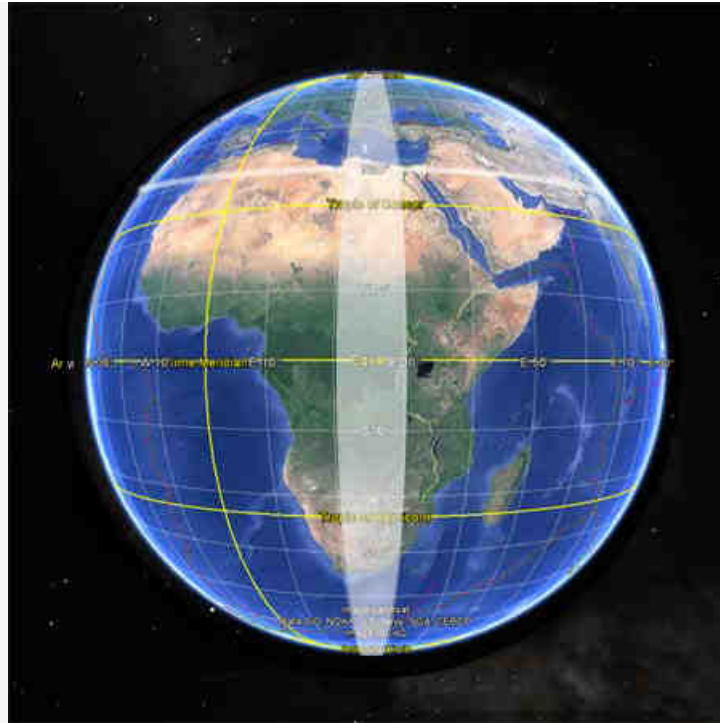

I quickly set all of my meditation tools out in front of me and began my ceremony.

As I began my hike to the top of the mountain I kept thinking about the areas of focus for the day's meditation; for most, it was considered a significant part of the world.

Since it was Day 16, and the number 16 symbolized great change and revolution, I knew that I had to be careful with what I thought and said during my meditation.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain

Since it was such a special day, I chose to walk up a section of the mountain that I had never hiked before. As I reached a particular place in my hike, I was happy to see that the wooden cross was still standing at the top of the mountain, off in the distance. (circled in the photograph below)

Just as in previous hikes, I continued to be mesmerized by the different colors of moss growing on various rocks scattered throughout the desert. At times, I was utterly captivated by its beauty.

At one point during my hike, I almost stepped on a very sharp knife, which was lying on the ground out in the open. Afraid that someone else would accidentally step on the knife, I picked it up and carried it with me.

As I approached the last stretch of my hike, I noticed that I was not the only person exploring the mountain. I was happy to see that I was not alone.

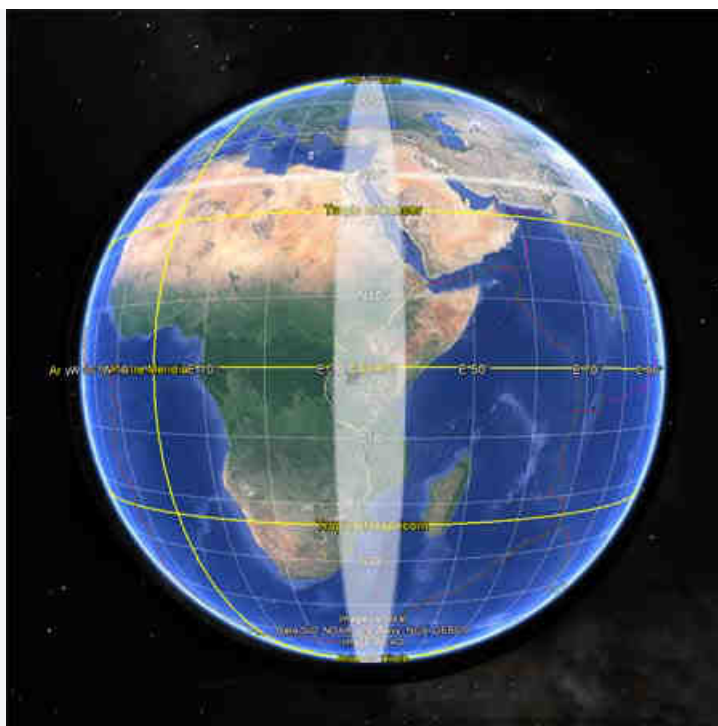

Once I reached my place of meditation, I set out all of my tools and began my ceremony by invoking the four directions with my mantra;

The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.

Under the Planetary Day Saturn, and the Planetary Hour Venus, I sat down and began my meditation. Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E30° and E40°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 16: Latitude E30° and E40° | Arctic Ocean – Barents Sea – Norway – Finland – Russia – White Sea – Belarus – Ukraine – Sea of Azov – Moldova – Black Sea – Turkey – Cyprus – Syria – Lebanon – West Bank – Gaza Strip – Israel – Jordan – Iraq – Mediterranean Sea – Egypt – Red Sea – Saudi Arabia – Sudan – Eritrea – Ethiopia – South Sudan – Democratic Republic of the Congo – Uganda – Kenya – Rwanda – Burundi – Tanzania – Malawi – Mozambique – Zambia – Zimbabwe – Swaziland – South Africa – Indian Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then poured my heart and soul out as I prayed for all of my friends and family members who were suffering from various physical ailments. At one point during my prayers, my attention turned to the arrowhead that was hanging around my neck, which had been given to me by my Hopi friend, Ahote.

This handmade arrowhead was an exceptional gift to me and was an essential part of my daily ceremonies.

After I took the time to acknowledge the arrowhead, I turned my focus back to the areas mentioned above, mainly the Middle East. There was a part of me that wished I could have taken my journey in this area of the world, but I knew that my life had to lead me to Arizona for an unknown reason, and so I chose to honor that by remaining in Phoenix.

My first thought, as I focused on this area of the world, was to place judgment on all of the various belief systems that had originated there thousands of years ago, and all of the people that had died in the multiple wars because of those beliefs. My journey was not about judgment, however. It was about transformation and Unconditional Love. It was not about living in the past. It was about moving forward, and so I remained focused on this concept.

While I was concentrating on all of this, a butterfly landed on a rock directly in front of me, and then a small lizard appeared several moments later on another nearby rock.

I knew that the butterfly symbolized transformation, and so I took its appearance as a sign from nature that what I was doing was bringing about some change.

Since Lizard brought the following messages:

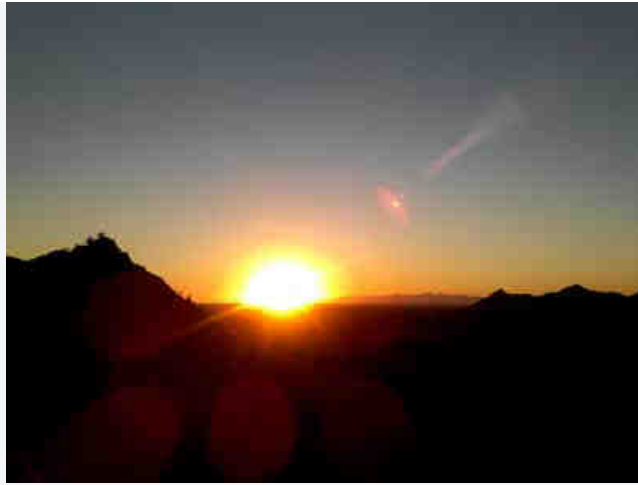

- Detachment from ego
- Power to regenerate that which is lost
- Facing fear
- Controlling dreams
- Moving in the other world

I also knew that what I was doing was void of ego and about restoring that which was lost, and was about facing my fears and moving forward into the next world.

Once I finished my meditation, I stood up and looked down on the quartz crystals that I had been sitting on during my various meditations over the last sixteen days.

I then closed out my ceremony, gathered my things and headed back down the mountain.

As I was coming down the mountain, a woman and her dog were coming up the mountain. The white dog approached me with a wagging tail and then stood quietly beside me, waiting for me to acknowledge her. I could see that the dog only had one eye as I gently patted her on her head. When I asked about the dog's eye, the owner informed me that the dog had cancer in one of her eyes.

Dog brought the following wisdom or medicine:

- Heals emotional wounds in humans
- Understanding of the duality of doubt and faith
- Companionship
- Unquestioned loyalty
- Love
- Knowledge of all things sensual
- Protection
- Ability to smell trouble from a distance

Since the dog was white, I knew that in addition to the messages listed above, she also symbolized purity. Since the dog only had one eye, my intuition told me that humankind was half blind to the truth of its origin, and all of the bloodsheds over religion and politics was for nothing more than personal satisfaction.

I continued on my hike. When I finally made my way back to the parking lot, I could see that Venus was beginning to appear in the evening sky.

And so with that sighting, I was able to declare that Day 16 of my journey was officially complete.

I began Day 17 of my journey by approaching The Transfiguration of Christ mountain from the South end of the park.

From a visual standpoint, this hike was always enjoyable and comfortable.

I did my final climb to the top...

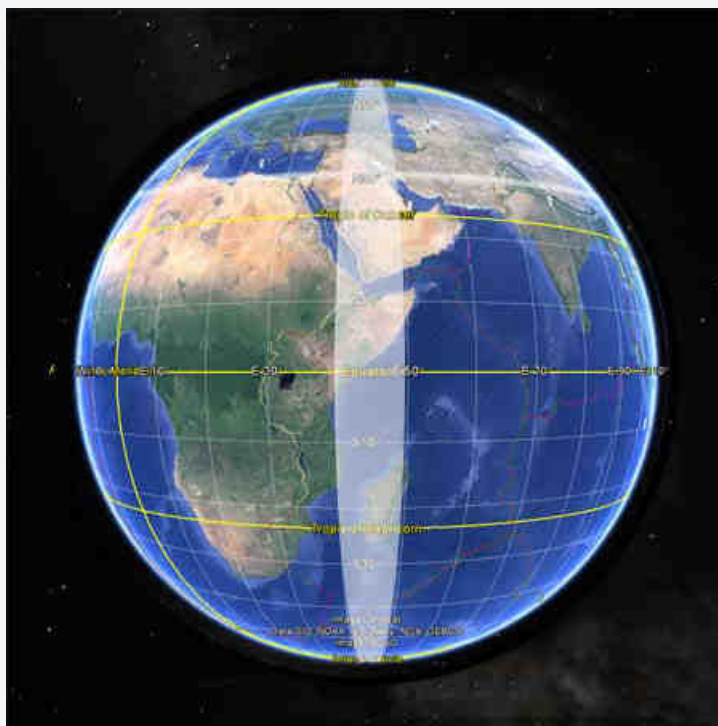

and the first things that I noticed was that the wooden cross was still in place.

Wasting no time I prepared for my meditation. After I completed the opening ceremony, and while under the Planetary Day Sun, and the Planetary Hour Saturn, I sat down and asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E40° and E50°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 17: Latitude E40° and E50° | Arctic Ocean – Barents Sea – Russia – White Sea – Ukraine – Kazakhstan – Black Sea – Caspian Sea – Georgia – Armenia – Azerbaijan – Turkey – Iran – Syria – Iraq – Saudi Arabia – Kuwait – Persian Gulf – Yemen – Eritrea – Ethiopia – Djibouti – Somalia – Kenya – Tanzania – Mozambique – Comoros – Glorioso Islands – Mayotte – Mozambique Channel – Madagascar – Europa Island – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then took a moment to pray for all of my friends and family members that needed some healing. Afterward, I laid down on a nearby rock and just starred up at the clear, blue sky. There was nothing but blue for as far as the eye could see.

After almost falling asleep twice, I pulled myself up from the rock, closed out my ceremony, and then headed back down the mountain.

Once I got to the bottom of the mountain I stopped at a very thorny cactus to take a couple of photographs; there were too many thorns to count.

While I was walking back to my vehicle, I noticed someone standing on a nearby hilltop pointing their video camera at me. I thought this was strange, so I, in turn, took a photograph of this person.

After finishing what felt like a straightforward, uneventful hike, I made my way back to the parking lot. I took a photograph of the planet Venus...

Venus, Y'all!

and declared Day 17 of my meditations and prayers complete. I prepared for the following day, which would be the halfway point of my journey.

It was Day 18 of my journey. As I walked towards the mountain, I tried to figure out from which direction I should hike to the top. In a blink of an eye, I decided to approach the mountain from the East, taking the same path that I took during the first part of my journey's introduction.

The Light

As soon as I reached the top of the mountain, I looked to see if the wooden cross was still in place. I was relieved to discover that it was.

I quickly set up everything for my ceremony. I invoked the four directions with my mantra and then began my meditation.

Under the Planetary Day Moon, and the Planetary Hour Saturn, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E50° and E60°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

I then repeated the same prayers above, but this time instead of just focusing on the areas between Latitude E50° and E60°, I included all of the areas that I had covered in the last 18 days.

I was now halfway around the world with my meditations and prayers.

Local Planetary Hour: 4:50 – 5:46 PM | Moon

I started the second half of my journey by approaching the mountain once again from the South. Although I had used this trail several times before, in the past, I knew there were still plenty of exciting things to discover if only I took the time to take a closer look.

To me, the desert was a fascinating place. At first glance, it always appeared to be very bleak. But that was very misleading. Once I made an effort to slow down and become intimate with the surroundings, I could always find something beautiful and different.

As I reached the top of the mountain, I could see that the wooden cross was still standing, ready to accompany me through the second half of my journey. For this, I was very grateful.

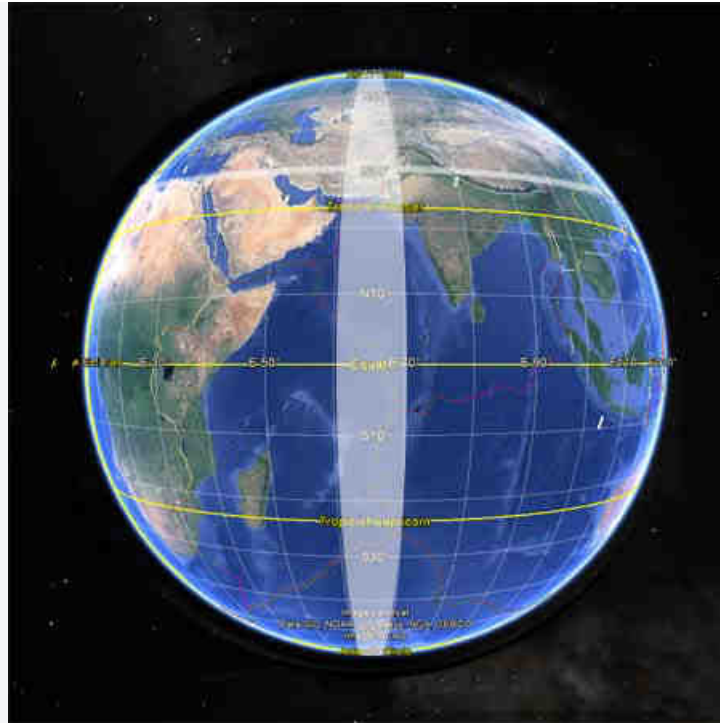

I quickly set up everything for my meditation. This time, however, instead of invoking only the four directions, I invoked all six directions: North, East, South, West, Upper, and Lower.

I repeated the following mantra three times for each direction;

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

After I finished my invocation, a man that appeared to be my age showed up on the scene and struck up a conversation with me. We must have talked for at least twenty minutes before he continued his run back down the mountain.

With very little daylight left, I sat down and began my meditation. Under the Planetary Day Mars, and the Planetary Hour Moon, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E60° and E70°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then poured my heart and soul out as I prayed for all of my friends and family members who were suffering from various physical ailments. Since my prayers were sent out during the Planetary Hour of the Moon, I knew they would be useful.

I then watched the sun disappear over the horizon...

before heading back down the mountain.

Taking a different path back to the parking lot, I passed the Ranger Station. It was at this moment that I took my daily photograph of the planet Venus.

I then returned to my vehicle and closed out Day 19 of my journey.

As I walked towards the mountain, I noticed two things immediately. The first thing that I noticed was two helicopters hovering over different parts of the park. My first impression was that someone was lost on the mountain. The second thing that got my attention was a contrail pointing directly at the place where I performed my meditations.

When I got to the top of the mountain, I could see that the wooden cross was now missing. I became a little disappointed, but at the same time knew that my journey was not about control or expectations. It was about allowing things to happen unconditionally and adapting to those changes.

The Missing Cross

After looking around, I found both pieces of wood at the bottom of the cliff. It appeared as though someone had removed the sticks from the rock, and then tossed them over the side of the mountain.

I retrieved both pieces of wood and then attempted to resurrect them. At one point the smaller piece of wood broke in half, so I had to search for a replacement. After I found a new stick, I reconstructed the cross and anchored it to the rock.

The Resurrection

After I set up everything for my ceremony, one of the helicopters flew over to where I was sitting and hovered directly over my head. I could see that the camera attached to the outside of the helicopter was pointed straight down at me. I took the following photograph while staring directly at the camera. A brief moment later the helicopter left.

Being Watched?

Before I began my meditation, I checked in with my "Google Sky Map" app to see which planets were in attendance. The app revealed that Mercury, Saturn, Venus, and Pluto were to my South and West, and Uranus and Neptune were to my East.

Under the Planetary Day Mercury and the Planetary Hour Mars, I began my meditation. Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E70° and E80°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then poured my heart and soul out as I prayed for all of my friends and family members who were suffering from various illnesses and complications. Since my prayers were sent out during the Planetary Hour of the Mars, I prayed for courage.

Once my prayers and meditations were complete, I just sat and watched the sky as it changed shapes and colors. It was a very magical evening.

Mountain to the North

Fire Red Sky

After the Sun finished setting behind a red sky, I made my way back down the mountain.

Day 20 was officially behind me.

I always used the time it took for me to walk from the parking lot to the end of the bike path to brainstorm on new ideas on how to make each hike to the top of the mountain a little different.

On this particular day, Day 21, I discovered the skeletal remains of a dead bush, or shrub, laying on the north side of the bike path. For some odd reason, this dead shrub caught my eye, so I picked it up and carried it with me on my hike.

Dead Shrub

At one point during my hike, I had to set it down in the middle of the trail to retrieve something from my camera bag, and that's when I noticed it had an exciting presence about it. It looked like the rays of the sun or some crown.

The Crown

As I continued on my hike, I began placing the "crown" on different things to see how it changed the environment.

Crown on Trail Post

This little exercise was a lot of fun.

Saguaro Crowned

When I reached the top of the mountain, I was happy to discover that the wooden cross that I had resurrected the day before was still in place. I placed the crown on one of the quartz crystals and snapped the following image.

Wooden Cross and Crown

I then set out all of my items for my meditation. Under the Planetary Day Jupiter, and the Planetary Hour Mercury, I invoked the six directions and began my meditation.

Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E80° and E90°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

As soon as I completed my prayers, I noticed that a family of three appeared on top of the mountain. The number 3 was one of my favorite numbers.

I then sat quietly and gazed at the sun.

Once my meditation was over, I gathered my things and closed out my ceremony. I then retrieved my crown and brought it with me as I exited the mountain. I stopped a couple of times to take more photographs.

On this particular day I decided that instead of following the park trails to the top of the mountain, I would forge my own path. Being extremely careful during my hike, I happened upon a worn out shoe that someone had left behind or lost in the desert.

A Different Journey

As I continued on my hike, I noticed more than one Jackrabbit wandering around the mountainside.

I knew right away that the Native American symbol for rabbit was:

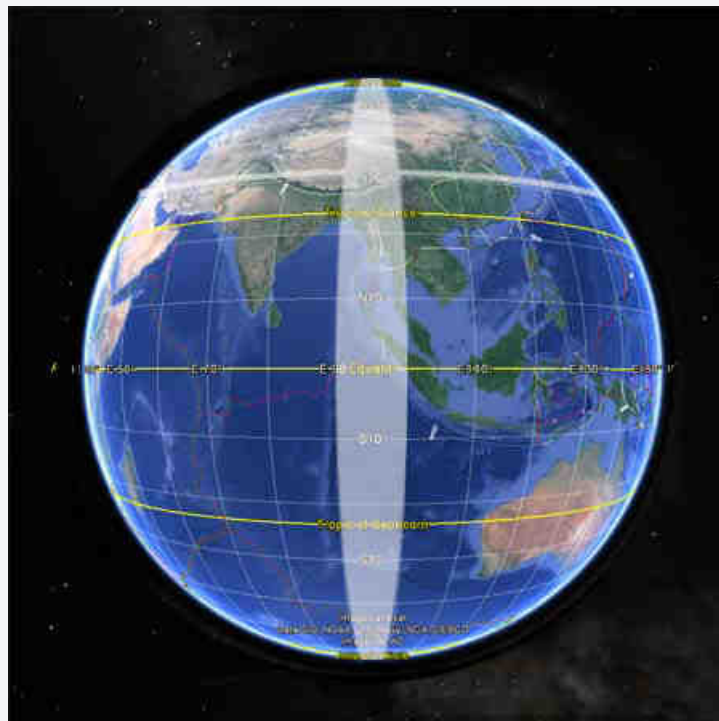

- Guile
- Paradox and contradiction
- Living by one's own wits
- Receiving hidden teachings and intuitive messages
- Quick-thinking
- Humility
- Moving through fear
- Strengthening intuition

I checked in on the wooden cross when I got to the top of the mountain and was happy to find everything still in place.

Just as I had done for the last twenty-one days, I set out all of my things and prepared for my ceremony. Under the Planetary Day Venus, and the Planetary Hour Jupiter, I invoked the six directions and performed my meditation.

I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E90° and E100°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 22: Latitude E90° and E100° | the Arctic Ocean – Vilkitsky Strait – Russia – Mongolia – China – Bhutan – Bangladesh – Myanmar – Gulf of Martaban – Thailand – India – Indonesia – Cocos Island – Indian Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then asked the father's in heaven to please send healing energy from above, and direct it through my crown chakra. Using my thoughts and prayers, I then channeled the healing energy and dispersed it to everyone that I knew.

Since my meditation and prayer took place during the Planetary Hour of Jupiter, I also asked for wisdom, optimism, and money.

Once I completed my prayers, I gathered my things, closed out my ceremony, and headed back down the mountain.

I stopped along the way to take a few more photographs.

When I arrived at Dreamy Draw Park I realized that I had left two significant ceremony pieces at home, so I had to turn around and rush back to my apartment to retrieve those items for my meditation.

By the time that I returned to the park, the Sun had set very low in the sky. With no time to waste, I chose the most direct route I could take to get to the top of the mountain.

I took the following photographs during my quick ascent.

By the time I reached the top of the mountain, I was completely out of breath. I quickly laid out my stones and rattle and began my meditation. Under the Planetary Day Saturn, and the Planetary Hour Venus, I invoked the six directions and asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E100° and E110°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I then asked the Creator in heaven to please send healing energy from above, and direct it through my crown chakra. Using my rattle, my thoughts and prayers, I then channeled the healing energy and dispersed it to my friends and family members who were in need of healing. Since this took place during the Planetary Hour of Venus, I also tossed in a dash of Love.

After I completed my prayers, I closed out my ceremony, and that's when the following image appeared on the horizon. To me, it looked like an enormous eye. I titled the photograph, "The Eye of God."

The Eye of God

The Eye of God

For me, the image felt like some acknowledgment from the Creator, as if to say the Creator was watching.

For reasons I can't explain I then turned around and looked behind me. That's when I noticed something new in the matrix; two people riding horseback through the desert. I had never seen horseback riders in Dreamy Draw Park before.

Two Horses

Using the Native American symbol for "horse", I the following messages were applied to my journey: Power, Stamina, Endurance, Faithfulness, Freedom to run free, Control of the environment, Awareness of power achieved with true cooperation, Interspecies communication, Expanding one's own potential abilities, Friendship and Cooperation, Travel, Astral travel, Guardian of travelers, Guide to overcoming obstacles.

After the Sun disappeared over the horizon, I began my hike back to the parking lot. As I approached my vehicle, I noticed a very striking tree that was begging to have its portrait taken.

The Umbrella Tree

And after paying tribute to planet Venus with one last photograph...

Planet Venus

I placed everything in my vehicle and closed out Day 23 of my journey.

As I looked closer, I noticed a lizard sitting on one of the stones in the center of the circle. The lizard was utterly unaffected by my presence. It remained still and calm as I moved my camera closer and closer. It stayed in place even after I pulled my camera away.

Unfazed Lizard

As I continued my hike to the top of the mountain, I noticed something reasonably large jump across the trail in front of me. After pausing to take a closer look, I discovered it was a coyote.

I watched the coyote for approximately five minutes before realizing that there were actually...

...two coyotes traveling together.

I knew too well that the Native American symbol for the coyote was:

- Understanding that all things are sacred – yet nothing is sacred
- Teaching that only when all masks have fallen will we connect with the Source
- Intelligence
- Singing humans into being
- Childhood trust in truth
- Teaching us how to rear our young
- Brings rain
- Ability to laugh at one's own mistakes
- Placing the North Star
- Shape-shifting
- Teaching balance between risk and safety

I also knew that the coyote represented trickery and deceit, so I sent out a prayer and asked to be surrounded with protection.

While attempting to keep my eyes on the coyotes, I continued my hike to the top of the mountain. The wooden cross was still in place.

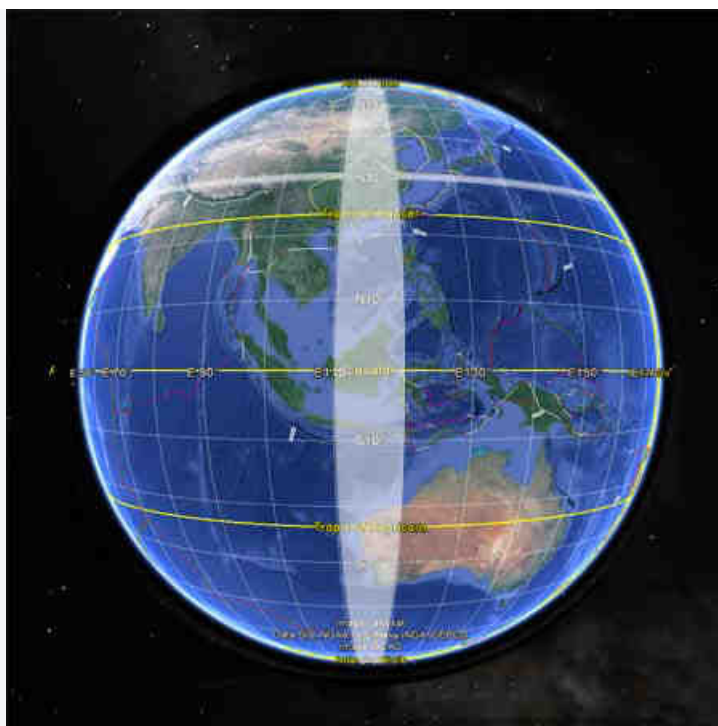

Before I set out my things for my meditation, I looked towards the East and noticed a third coyote roaming the desert below. My intuition told me that something was afoot, and I had to be very careful and aware of my surroundings. I once again prayed for protection and clarity.

I then prepared for my meditation. Under the Planetary Day Sun, and the Planetary Hour Saturn, I invoked the six directions and asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E110° and E120°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 24: Latitude E110° and E120° | Arctic Ocean – Vilkitsy Strait – Khatanga Gulf – Russia – Mongolia – China – Bohai Sea – Yellow Sea – Hong Kong – South China Sea – Paracel Islands – Spratly Islands – Philippines – Sulu Sea – Brunei – Indonesia – Celebes Sea – Makassar Strait – Java Sea – Flores Sea – Timor Sea – Australia – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. (Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

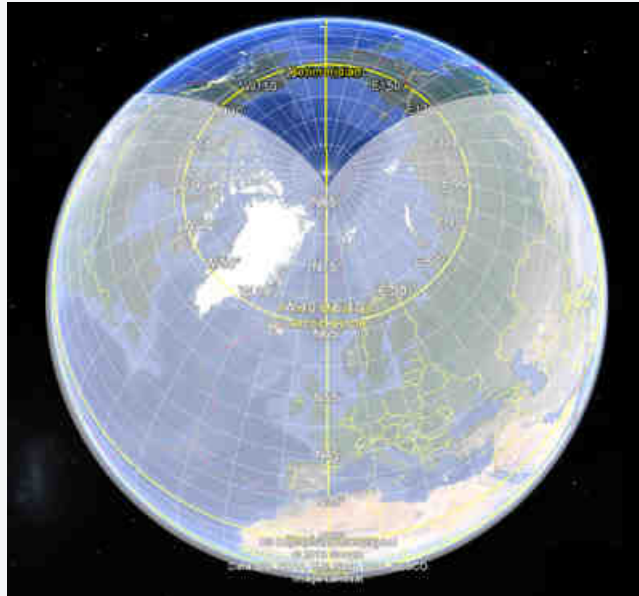

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional

Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I remained disciplined under Saturn's restrictive energy and prayed for healing energies to be sent out to all of my family members and friends.

Once I was done, I closed out my ceremony with one last prayer of protection. I then realized that I had completed two-thirds (24) of my (36) meditations. I only had twelve more meditations to perform to complete my journey around the globe.

Google Earth Map 2013

Two-Thirds Complete

Just as I had done for the last several days, I sat quietly and took in another beautiful Sunset.

Sunset

I then exited the mountain and headed back towards the parking lot. That's when two Canadian Geese appeared in the matrix and flew directly overhead.

The pair of Geese added the following positive messages and affirmations to my day, and my journey:

- Movement along one's soul path
- Understanding the power of community
- Assisting others through illness
- Happiness

It wasn't long after that the sky began to awaken with beautiful bursts of color.

It was very ethereal, and surreal.

And not to be outdone by the sky, planet Venus appeared, taking the magic of the evening up a notch, or two.

Day 24 of my journey was complete.

When I reached the top of the mountain, the sun was already extremely low on the horizon.

I quickly set out my things, invoked the six directions, and performed the following meditation.

I then began with my healing ceremony. Since it took place during the Planetary Hour of the Moon, I knew they were answered immediately.

Once I completed my prayers and meditation, I closed out my ceremony with very little daylight left. It was a close call.

Last Light of Day 26

My hike back down the mountain was about as fast as my hike up. The only thing that caught my eye during my walk was an abandoned termite mound that I found next to a large rock.

Holy Cactus

Some Fungus

The Smallest Tree

The Smallest Hoodoos

I eventually made it to the top of the mountain I was relieved to see that on Day 27, the wooden cross was still standing.

The Wooden Cross

Once I got myself situated, I set out all of the things and prepared for my meditation. Using my Hopi rattle, I repeated my manta three different times in each direction; West, North, East, South, Sky, Earth.

Under the Planetary Day Mercury, and the Planetary Hour Mars, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E140° and E150°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

I then continued with the healing portion of my ceremony. Again, using my Hopi rattle, I invoked the heavenly Creator and asked that healing energies channel through my crown chakra, and then dispersed to a list of friends and family members that I named out loud.

As I focused my attention and prayers towards my friends at Hopi, I said a quick "Hello!" to my Hopi friend, Ahote. Suddenly, out of nowhere, the most beautiful crow flew in from the North. It flew directly between the Sun and me. The rays of the sun bounced off of its jet, black wings. It appeared to be extremely healthy and very powerful. I said with a smile, "I see you, Ahote!" I then continued with my prayers and my healing ceremony.

Once I was done, I closed out my ceremony, gathered my things and headed back down the mountain. I stopped along the way to take a few more photographs.

PERSONAL NUMEROLOGY

Personal Year: Number 8

Your November 2013 Numerology Forecast.

November is a 1 Personal Month in an 8 Personal Year. It brings confidence, independence, and individuality. Now, you are driven to take up new challenges, tackle new projects, and get a firm grip on your life. You have the energy to spare, and you use this to inspire and motivate others. You feel that there is nothing you can't deal with. You are ambitious and result-oriented. You receive an opportunity that will have long-ranging effects on your life. You are confident, but also a bit stubborn and hardheaded. You are direct and not as sensitive to other people's feelings as usual. This is a good time for business and finances. It is a time to be decisive and adventurous, not a time to be conservative. Courage and originality are essential ingredients needed to take full advantage of this cycle. You are more stable and outgoing in your personal life, much to the delight of friends and relatives. You are also generous and inspiring, but not in the mood to deal with the petty stuff. You are a little impatient. Romance may prove to be the most challenging aspect of this period. The chances of meeting someone are good, but your approach may be too aggressive and lacking in sensitivity. If you are married, or otherwise committed, a small warning: not everyone is on the high curve of his/her cycle, so be patient.

As I began Day 29 of my journey, I decided that I would approach the mountain from the paved road on the west end of Dreamy Draw Park.

While walking from the parking lot towards the west end of the park, I saw several people standing on top of the mountain where I held my meditations; four of those people were standing very close to the wooden cross. I couldn't help but wonder if one of these people had disturbed the cross in some way.

At one point while walking down the road, I noticed a chipmunk scurrying across the desert floor. I sat on one of the guard rails on the edge of the road and waited patiently for the chipmunk to get close enough for a photograph. While I was waiting for a cute, little bird dropped by for an inspection. Since my camera was ready to go; I lucked out with the following image.

By the time that I turned back around the chipmunk had disappeared entirely. I then began my hike to the top of the mountain.

Halfway up the mountain I discovered a crucifix, formed out of quartz crystals, lying on the ground on the north side of the mountain. I found this very comforting.

Quartz Crystal Crucifix

Several minutes later I made it to the top of the mountain. Acting purely on intuition, I grabbed some of the quartz crystals that were leftover from the "Love U Mom" message mentioned in the introduction of my journey...

"Love U Mom" message from the Introduction and placed them around the base of the wooden cross, which after a close inspection, was still intact.

The Wooden Cross

I then began my meditation. After I invoked the six directions with my mantra;

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

I sat down and asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude E160° and E170°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 29: Latitude E160° and E170° | Arctic Ocean – East Siberian Sea – Kolyma Gulf – Russia – Pacific Ocean – Wake Island – Marshall Islands – Nauru – Solomon Islands – Vanuatu – Coral Sea – New Caledonia – Norfolk Island – Tasman Sea – New Zealand – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Under the Planetary Day Venus, and the Planetary Hour Sun, Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. (Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I then sent out prayers of healing to everyone that I knew.

After I completed my meditation and prayers, I closed out my ceremony and headed back down the mountain. As I approached the main trail leading back to the parking lot, I discovered another rock configuration, this time on the east side of the mountain. I couldn't tell if the symbol in the center of the circle was the letter "L," or the number "7."

Several minutes later I made it back to my vehicle. I took a moment to locate the planet, Venus...

Planet Venus

and then closed out Day 29 of my journey. I only seven more meditations to go.

I didn't take any photographs during my hike up the mountain on Day 31 of my journey. As I approached the top of the North side of the mountain, I stopped and searched for a large, flat stone that I planned to use in a future meditation. Once I found what I considered to be the appropriate stone, I then walked around to the East side of the mountain and did the same thing.

With two large, flat stones in hand, I then walked around to the West side of the mountain and searched for a third stone. After I found the perfect stone I then hiked around to the South side of the mountain to look for the fourth stone.

I then brought all four stones to my place of meditation, sat them down next to the quartz crystals, and then returned to the very top of the mountain to search for two additional stones.

After I located the last two stones I added them to my collection and then took the following photographs of the places where I had gathered all of my stones;

North Stone

East Stone

West Stone

South Stone

Top Stones

All the while the wooden cross sat quietly in place, watching over everything that I had done.

Under the Planetary Day Sun, and the Planetary Hour Saturn, I began my next meditation. After invoking the six directions, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude Antimeridian and W170°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

After I completed my meditation, a young couple appeared on the top of the mountain West of where I was sitting.

After they disappeared down the West side of the mountain, I then began the healing portion of my ceremony, making sure to include the couple that had just left the mountain.

Once I closed out my ceremony, I took all of my things, including the six flat stones that I had gathered earlier, and headed back down the mountain.

With the Sun and planet, Venus positioned in the West...

I closed out Day 31 of The Transfiguration of Christ journey.

Local Planetary Hour: 4:40 – 5:33 PM | Sun

Before I headed to the mountain, I took the time to engrave "www.thetransfigurationofchrist.com" on one of the large, flat stones that I had retrieved from the park the day before. I then placed the stone in my vehicle and took it with me to my meditation.

I arrived at Dreamy Draw Park around 4:00 PM. I parked my vehicle in the parking lot and then set out for the top of the mountain.

As I was walking towards the mountain, I made the split-hair decision that I would place the first engraved stone somewhere on the North side of the mountain. I then decided that the stone also had to be placed close to the top of the mountain; above where the saguaro was located, but below the wooden cross.

The North Side

Once I hiked past the saguaro, I continued up the mountain until I reached the cave. I then stopped for a moment to catch my breath, and that's when I noticed the wooden cross located directly above me. It was still firmly in place.

The Wooden Cross

I climbed the rocks around the edge of the cave and searched for a place to leave my stone. Once I found the perfect location I took the following photograph.

Stone In Plain Sight

Comfortable with this location, I then turned the stone over to hide the engraving.

Hidden

I continued my climb to the top of the mountain.

The Light

Under the Planetary Day Moon, and the Planetary Hour Sun, I began my meditation. After I invoked the six directions I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W170° and W160°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 32: Latitude W170° and W160° | Arctic Ocean – Chukchi Sea – Russia – Bering Sea – United States – Kotzebue Sound – Norton Sound – Bristol Bay – North Pacific Ocean – Johnson Atoll – Kingman Reef – Palmyra Atoll – Jarvis Island – American Samoa – Niue – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then sent out a very intense prayer of healing, not only to my friends and family members but myself. There were a few situations and personal issues that I felt needed some intervention.

Once I completed my prayers, I sat back and watched the sky put on a fantastic show.

Sun rays

Day 32 Sunset 1

Day 32 Sunset 2

Day 32 Sunset 3

I felt blessed to have able to witness such a fantastic sunset.

Then I did something a little different. Usually, I would always close out my meditation and prayer before the Sunset. However, on this particular day, I waited for the Sun to disappear before I closed out my ceremony. This ceremony would become the new ritual for the remaining days of my journey.

Day 32 Dusk

After I closed out my ceremony, I hiked back down the mountain, towards the parking lot. Once I made it back to the parking lot, I said a quick goodnight to planet, Venus... and a fond farewell to Day 32 of my journey.

Local Planetary Hour: 4:39 – 5:33 PM | Moon

Before I left for my meditation, I took a few minutes to engrave another one of the large, flat stones that I had retrieved from the park a couple of days earlier. I noticed that this particular stone had a very interesting crack in the upper left-hand corner. If I leaned my head to the left just right, I noticed that the crack resembled a crucifix sitting on top of a hill, or mountain. Considering it was Day 33 of my journey, and the number 33 was a very spiritual number, I found this very encouraging.

I arrived at the park at approximately 4:00 PM. At 4:15 PM I began walking down the main trail on the east side of The Transfiguration of Christ mountain.

Trail 100

I proceeded down this trail for several hundred yards until I got to the point where my line of vision was aligned perfectly with the Sun and the top of The Transfiguration of Christ mountain. At that point, I knew that the mountain was directly west of where I was standing.

I headed west and walked straight for the top of the mountain.

Looking West

While hiking across the desert, I happened upon a huge quartz crystal. As I examined the crystal a bit closer, I noticed several different images in the stone.

On the left end of the stone, I could see the head of a Mountain Lion, while on the right end of the stone I could see the profile of a huge Tiger or Lion.

Lion Faces

The Native American message or wisdom for Lion was:

- Using leadership power wisely and without ego
- Balancing power, intention, strength
- Gaining self-confidence
- Freedom from guilt, Cunning

I continued my hike towards the top of the mountain, stopping only briefly to place the second engraved stone in the crevice of a large rock. Once I was comfortable with the location...

Engraved Stone Number Two

...I then flipped the stone over to hide the engraving.

Engraved Stone Number Two

As I reached the top of the mountain, I noticed that the wooden cross was still standing firmly in place. This made me very happy, mainly because I considered Day 33 one of the most important days of my journey.

The Wooden Cross

After becoming situated, and after invoking the six directions, I sat down and began my meditation. I started at 4:39 PM, the very first minute of the Planetary Hour Moon.

Under the Planetary Day Mars, and the Planetary Hour Moon, I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W160° and W150°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 33: Latitude W160° and W150° | Arctic Ocean – Beaufort Sea – United States – North Pacific Ocean – Kiribati – Jarvis Island – French Polynesia – Cook Islands – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then continued with my prayers for healing.

Since it was Day 33, I decided to do something a little different. While using my Hopi rattle, I closed my eyes and imagined rays of light shooting out in every direction from the surface of the Earth. I envisioned these rays of light as unconditional love, projecting out into the solar system, and the Universe.

For once, I thought, it was time for all of the beings on Earth to come together and have an effect on the stars and other planets in the solar system, instead of it being the other way around. I believed that we all had a lot of nurturing and “life” to offer the cosmos, and it was our duty to project positive, creative energy, instead of the negative, destructive energy.

Rays of Light

Once my meditation and prayers were complete, I spent the next forty minutes or so waiting for the Sun to set.

Comet ISON

Baby Saguaro | Comet ISON

A few minutes before the sun went down a small Wren visited me by appearing on the rock next to the wooden cross.

A Wren

Since a Wren had shown up previously in my journey, I knew immediately that its main message was, "Messenger from the Gods." Since the Wren appeared so close to the wooden cross, on Day 33, this sent chills down my spine.

I then waited until the very last minute of the Planetary Hour Moon to close out my ceremony. At precisely 5:33 PM, while the Sun was setting in the West...

...I rattled each of the six directions with the mantra;

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

At that very moment, my ceremony for the day was complete.

I quickly headed back down the mountain towards the parking lot, stopping briefly to take one more photograph.

Crown of Thorns

Once I reached the parking lot I looked to the West and noticed that Venus now had a companion; the new Moon.

Venus and the New Moon

And with that sighting Day, 33 of The Transfiguration of Christ was complete.

Before I left for my meditation, I took a few minutes to engrave another one of the large, flat stones that I had retrieved from the park a few days earlier. This time I used a Dremel to do the engraving, which turned out much more beautiful.

When I arrived in the park, I headed to the west side of The Transfiguration of Christ mountain. I found a trail heading south...

and walked down this trail until it felt as though I was perfectly aligned with the eastern side of the mountain, and the Sun, which was directly behind me to the west.

I then began hiking east, making sure to walk a straight line towards the western slope of the mountain.

While hiking through the desert, I happened upon this substantial piece of dry wood, which to me looked like an abstract image of a Rhinoceros.

Abstract Rhinoceros

In Native American traditions, Rhinoceros offered the following message or wisdom:

- Learning comfort in solitude
- Connection to ancient wisdom
- Knowledge of self
- Proper use of ancient wisdom
- Trust of instincts

I thought it was interesting how all of those messages seemed to speak directly to what I was doing with my journey.

Eventually, I made it to the base of The Transfiguration of Christ mountain, and that's when I began to ascend what I considered to be the steepest side of the entire mountain. I had to be extremely careful not to lose my footing as I climbed to the top.

Once I reached the area closest to the top of the mountain, without actually being on the top, I found the perfect location to place the third stone.

I took the following photograph...

before flipping the stone over to hide the engraving.

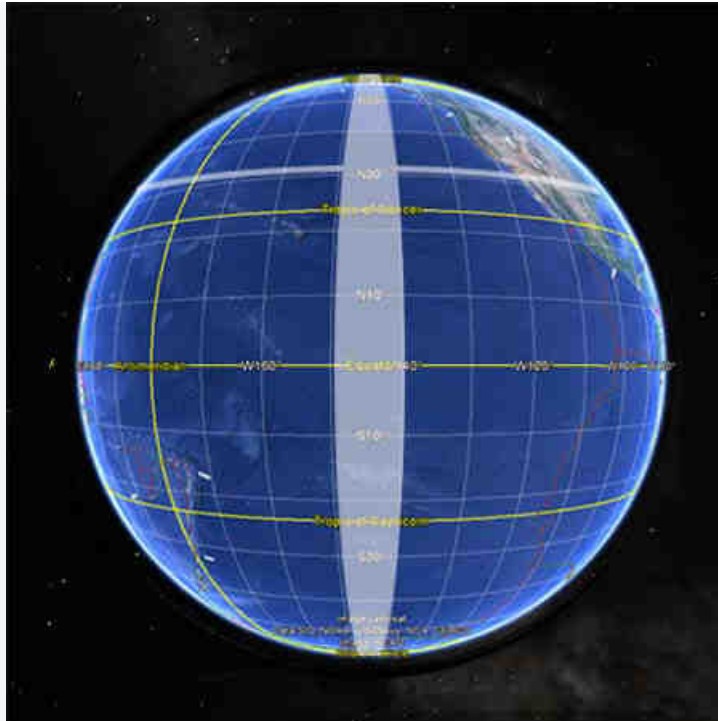

I then headed to my place of meditation. As I made my way around the mountain, the wooden cross came into view, and I was relieved once again to find everything still in place.

By this time it was 5:02 PM, which left me thirty minutes to perform my meditation and prayers before sunset.

Under the Planetary Day Mercury, and the Planetary Hour Mars, I sat down and began my meditation. I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W150° and W140°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 34: Latitude W150° and W140° | Arctic Ocean – the Beaufort Sea – the United States – Canada – Gulf of Alaska – North Pacific Ocean – French Polynesia – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. (Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

After my meditation was complete, I began the healing portion of my ceremony. Since my prayers took place under the Planetary Hour of Mars, I also added a dose of courage to my healing prayers.

After I completed my prayers, I made a point to pay close attention to everything that was going on around me. I consulted the "Google Sky Map" app on my smartphone to see which planets were in attendance.

Saturn, the Sun and Mercury were all sitting on or below the horizon...

while Pluto, the Moon, and Venus, almost forming a perfect triangle, sat in attendance in the southwest section of the evening sky.

While standing quietly and taking in my surroundings, a Wren perched itself on the highest rock of the mountain, which was a few yards south of where I was located. It got my attention by singing a lovely song. Acting quickly, I was lucky enough to capture the Wren in the following photograph.

Then, I heard another Wren at the bottom of the mountain. This Wren was perched at the northeast base of the mountain.

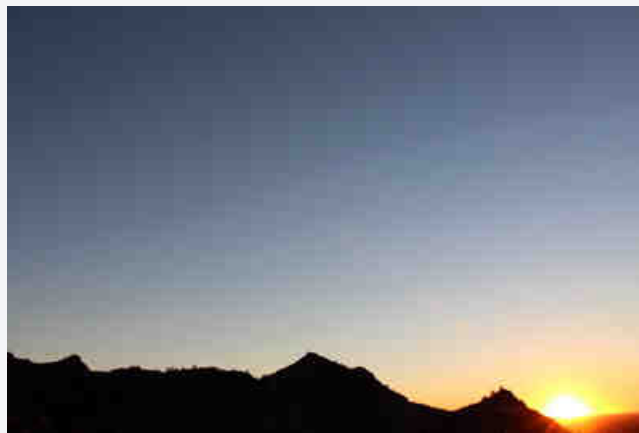

And finally, to my surprise, a third Wren suddenly appeared on one of the rocks near the wooden cross. All three of the Wren's sang out in unison as if to say farewell to the setting Sun.

“Messenger from the Gods” kept running through my mind over and over again.

After thinking about what had just happened, it finally dawned on me that the position of the three Wrens mirrored precisely the position of Pluto, the Moon, and Venus in the heavens, and I was standing right in the middle of it all. I couldn't be sure, but my intuition told me that something very significant on a metaphysical level had just taken place.

A few minutes later the Sun finally disappeared behind the horizon...

and I closed out my ceremony.

Once my ceremony was complete I headed back down the west side of the mountain and made my way back to the parking lot.

After acknowledging the Moon and Venus (and Pluto), I ended Day 34 of my journey.

Just like I had done the previous day, and the day before that, I took a few minutes to engrave www.transfigurationofchrist.com on another one of the large, flat stones that I had retrieved from the park on Day 31 of my journey.

While taking a photograph of the engraved stone, I made sure also to include two exceptional rings that I had been wearing to each of my meditations. Both of the rings were handcrafted on the Second Mesa by a Hopi Indian named, Fernando Puhuefvaya. These rings meant a lot to me.

The Transfiguration of Christ | Hopi Rings

As I pulled into the park, I parked my van in a parking lot directly north of The Transfiguration of Christ mountain. After I retrieved all of the things from my van, I then headed south towards the mountain.

When I reached the foot of the mountain, I then took a left and followed the base of the mountain all the way around to the southernmost point.

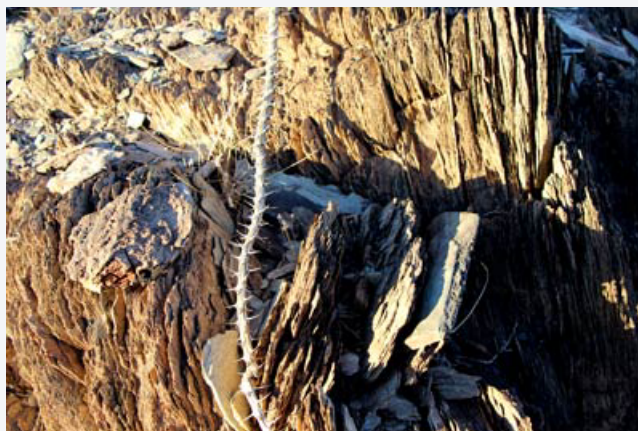

After I reached the south side of the mountain, I then walked a straight line towards my place of meditation.

Several yards before reaching the top I searched for a location to place the fourth engraved stone. I set the stone in place and after taking the following photograph...

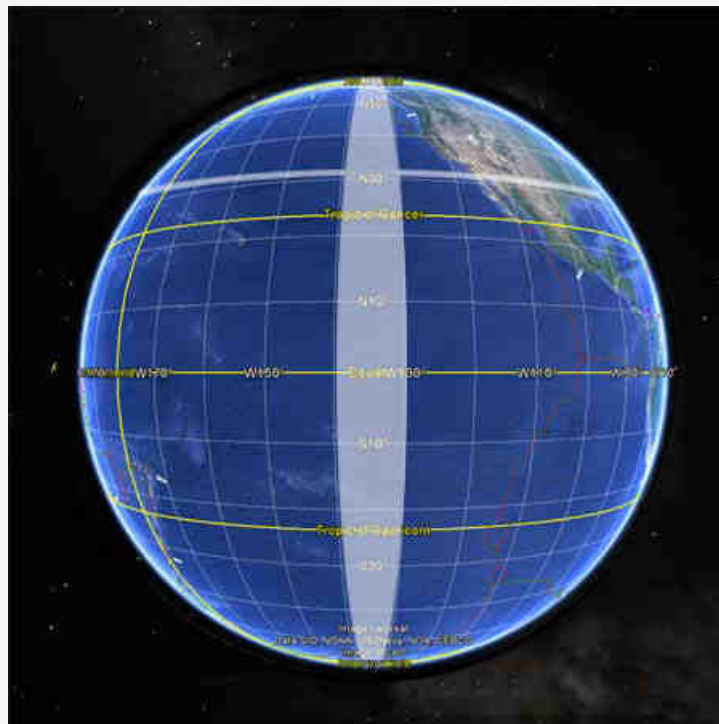

...I flipped the stone over to hide the engraving temporarily.

I continued my climb to the top of the mountain, and as I reached the very top, I could see that the wooden cross was still in place. The time was 4:44 PM.

I then retrieved everything from my bag and invoked the six directions. Under the Planetary Day Jupiter, and the Planetary Hour Saturn, I sat down and began my meditation. Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W140° and W130°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

I then complimented my meditation with a healing ceremony much like the ones I had done throughout my entire journey.

Once the healing portion of my ceremony was complete, I was lead to grab one the of the small quartz crystals from the base of the wooden cross and carve, "www.thetransfigurationofchrist.com" in the base of the rock supporting the wooden cross.

After I finished carved the website address in the stone, fourteen birds flew directly overhead. I wasn't able to tell what type of birds they were, but I knew their message had to do something with migration or to travel in groups. Since they were flying east, I couldn't help but wonder if they were reminding me that it was almost time to go back east to see my family for the holidays. I then remembered that the number 14 meant: "TEMPERANCE | MARRIAGE AND ASSOCIATION | 'Long lasting life, Stability, No change.'"

After acknowledging the message of the birds, I then watched the Sun set behind the horizon.

As the Sun disappeared behind the horizon, leaving behind one of the most beautiful skies I had ever seen, I closed out my ceremony and headed back towards my van.

As I approached my van, I turned around to take a photograph of the Moon and planet Venus, and then bid farewell to Day 35 of my journey.

Something kept waking me up early on this particular day, so I got up and greeted the Sun with some of the sacred corn pollen that Ahote and Tuwa had given me earlier.

As directed by Ahote and Tuwa, I sprinkled some of the corn pollen at the front door of my apartment and put in a special request with the Creator. I then went back to sleep.

Just as I had done the last several days, I then took a few minutes to engrave “www.transfigurationofchrist.com” on the fifth and final stone that I had retrieved from the park on Day 31 of my journey.

www.thetransfigurationofchrist.com

When I finally arrived at the park later that afternoon to perform my final meditation, the small chipmunk (officially an Antelope Squirrel) that had eluded me several days earlier, finally decided to greet me as I got out of my van. It seemed to have a special message for me.

Antelope Squirrel

Squirrel offered the following messages:

- Ability to solve puzzles
- Resourcefulness
- Quick change of direction
- Storing for the future

- Balance in giving and receiving
- Power of rest during times of non-movement
- Warning
- Discovery
- Change
- Avoiding danger by climbing to a higher place

After gathering my things, I began walking towards the north face of The Transfiguration of Christ mountain.

The Transfiguration of Christ Mountain

As I approached, I noticed that the clouds directly above the mountain spelled out the word, "Love." (Do you see it?)

L.O.V.E.

Taking the same path that I had taken on Day 32, I returned to the exact location where I had placed the first engraved stone on the north face of the mountain. I located the stone, flipped it over to reveal the engraving, and then headed towards the east side of the mountain.

North

Once I reached the east side of the mountain, I located the engraved stone that I had left during Day 33 of my journey. I flipped it over as well to reveal the engraving, and then continued to the west side of the mountain.

East

On my way to the west face of the mountain, I had to cross my place of meditation. That's when I noticed that the wooden cross was still standing firmly in place. I then saw what is known as a Northern Shrike perched on a nearby shrub.

The Wooden Cross | Northern Shrike

Shrike offered the following wisdom:

- The only truly predatory songbird
- Ferocity
- Value of surplus
- Surveyor of one's surroundings
- Understanding of the nature of masks
- Boldness
- Fearlessness

I then sat my things down and continued to the west side of the mountain. I searched for and found the engraved stone that I had left on Day 34 of my journey. I flipped it over to reveal the engraving, and then contemplated my path to the south side of the mountain.

West

And here's where things got a little interesting. While surveying my options to figure out which path to take to the south side of the mountain, I decided to take a risk and climb a small cliff directly above where I was standing.

The scary thing about this for me was that if I had fallen, I would have most definitely ended up at the bottom of the mountain either knocked unconscious or severely hurt. Even so, I followed through with my decision to take this path. Before I attempted to do my climb, I looked around to see if anyone else was on the mountain. I did not see anyone, anywhere.

I carefully placed my camera and my fifth engraved stone on the ledge directly above me, and then pulled myself up over the cliff. As soon as I did so, I noticed a man with a gray beard and olive skin sitting on a different cliff directly above me. As soon as I saw him, I said, "I'm so glad you're here. I thought I was the only person out here." He just smiled at me and said, "Be careful." I couldn't help but wonder if this being was a guardian angel.

Grateful that everything turned out okay, I then continued my hike around to the south side of the mountain. After taking a quick photograph of the man sitting on the ledge...

Guardian Angel?

I located the engraved stone that I had placed on Day 35 of my journey. I flipped the stone over revealing the engraving and then continued to the very top of the mountain.

South

When I reached the top of the mountain, I placed the fifth and final engraved stone, which I had been carrying with me throughout my entire climb, on one of the highest rocks on the mountain.

Pinnacle

I then returned to my place of meditation and prepared to start my ceremony. It was precisely 4:37 PM.

Before I began my meditation I took a moment to recognize the fact that everything had fallen in place perfectly for my last meditation; it was my Personal Year 8, my Personal Month 1, and my Personal Day 9, which symbolized success, new beginnings, and completion. It took place during the Planetary Day Venus, who had accompanied me throughout my entire journey, and the Planetary Hour Jupiter, which to me symbolized wisdom and optimism. Everything felt perfect and in Divine order.

I then sat down and began my meditation. Once again I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, this time between the Latitude W130° and W120°, all the way from the North Pole down to the South Pole:

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For Day 36: Latitude W130° and W120° | the Arctic Ocean – Beaufort Sea – the United States – Canada – Gulf of Alaska – North Pacific Ocean – Pitcairn Islands – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification.

(Purification is the process of rendering something pure, IE. clean of foreign elements and pollution.) I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if they deemed it appropriate.

As I invoked the fathers in the heaven to send down healing energies through my crown chakra, I then sent out these prayers of healing to every living creature on the entire planet. Retracing the areas performed in all of the previous meditations, I envisioned the entire planet being covered with this healing energy.

I then returned to the top of the mountain to activate all of the meditations and prayers that I had performed over the last 36 days.

I drew a cross in the dirt symbolizing the four directions; North, East, South and West, and the four elements; Fire (the generative force of the Universe), Air (the ether or akashic records), Earth and Water (the emotional substance of the Universe.)

Cross

I then poured some water that had been blessed with Universal, Multi-Cultural, Christ Consciousness inside the figure of the cross, allowing the Spirit in the center of the cross to arise.

Cross

I held out both arms and gently turned myself in a circle, making sure to face each direction as I projected this Christ Consciousness around the entire planet. With absolute certainty, I declared my activation successful.

I then returned to my place of meditation to watch the sunset.

The Wooden Cross and Crescent Moon

And what a glorious sunset it was.

Day 36 Sunset

After the Sun disappeared behind the horizon, I closed out my ceremony and headed back down the mountain.

As I walked back towards my vehicle, I took a moment to acknowledge the Moon and Venus sitting quietly in the evening sky.

The Crescent Moon and Venus

I then declared the meditation portion of my journey complete. I got back in my van and headed home.

November 17, 2013 | SEALING THE 36 MEDITATIONS IN PLACE

Nine days later I returned to the Transfiguration of Christ mountain to seal and bring to a close the first 36 meditations.

Before I departed for Dreamy Draw Park, I took a few minutes to engrave the sixth and final stone. I carefully carved into the stone the symbol of the cross, Day 37 and www.thetransfigurationofchrist.com.

Initially, I had gathered this sixth stone as a backup, in case something happened to one of the other stones during one of my ceremonies. As fate would have it, however, this sixth stone would end up having a very different purpose.

After I finished the engraving, I blessed the stone by placing it next to three candles that I had lit in honor of the three Hawks. I then set out for Dreamy Draw Park.

As soon as I arrived at the park, I gathered my things and headed towards the mountain. As I approached the mountain, my inner guidance instructed me to make sure that the five stones that I had left behind previously were still in place.

My first stop was to check in on the stone of the North. It was where I had left it.

The Stone of the North

The stone of the East was my second stop, and it too remained firmly in place.

The Stone of the East

As I made my way over to the west side of the mountain, I passed by the place where I held my meditations. It had been nine days since I had visited the mountain. The first thing that I noticed was that the wooden cross was still standing. I set some of my things down and continued towards the west side of the mountain, to search for the third stone.

The Wooden Cross

I did a quick search as I made my way to the west side of the mountain and was pleased to discover that the stone of the West was also exactly where I had left it previously.

The Stone of the West

And the same could be said for the fourth stone; the stone of the South.

The Stone of the South

I then hiked to the top of the mountain to search for the fifth and final stone. As I reached the crest of the mountain, I quickly learned that the fifth stone was missing. I wasn't surprised by this, mainly because this particular spot was entirely out in the open, and subject to many visitors. I couldn't help but wonder who had taken the stone, and what they had done with it.

The Missing Stone

I took a few moments to hike around the top of the mountain to search for the missing stone. When my search came up empty-handed, I laid the sixth stone in its place.

The Sixth Stone | Day 37

After I gave the sixth stone its new home, I walked over to my place of meditation, removed five stones from my bag and placed them on top of the quartz crystals embedded in the top of the mountain. This new configuration of stones represented the Cross of the Christ or Creator.

The Cross of the Christ | The Cross of the Creator

After retrieving several additional items from my bag that had been given to me by the Hopi, I began my invocation.

Facing the following six directions, I chanted the following mantra three times in each direction.

West:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

North:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

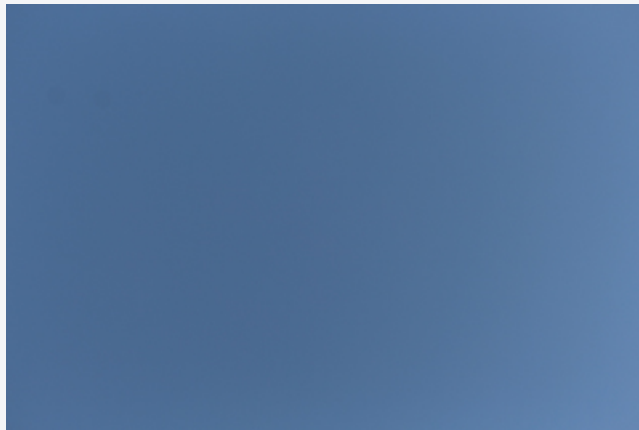

East:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

South:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

Up towards the heavens:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light*

*I am Light
I am that Light.*

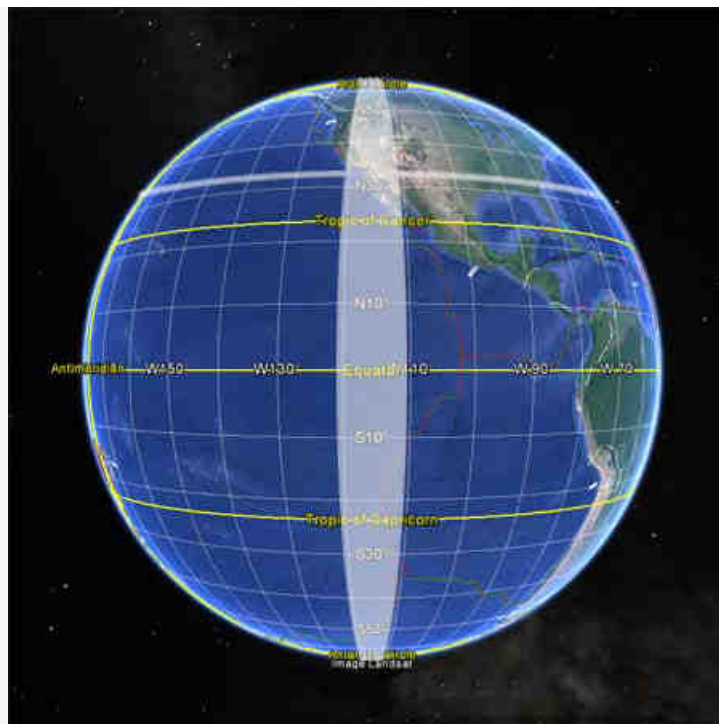

Down towards Mother Earth:

*The Father and I are one.
I stand before thee in the Light of the Christ.
For I am Light
I am Light
I am that Light.*

I then began my meditation, which allowed me to seal the first 36 meditations in place.

I asked that the Creator cleanse all of the areas of Mother Earth highlighted in the following image, all the way from the North Pole to the South Pole, between the Latitude W110° - W120°;

Google Earth Map 2013

Areas of Focus For The Sealing: Latitude W110° - W120° | the Arctic Ocean – Canada – United States – Mexico – North Pacific Ocean – South Pacific Ocean – Southern Ocean – Antarctica

Meditation/Prayer: I prayed that all stones, plants, animals, and human beings being born in these areas to be cleansed and prepared for a great re-balancing, and purification. I also prayed for all of the creatures of the seas, land, and air, and asked that they all return to perfect health. I declared that it was time once again for Mother Earth and all of her inhabitants to return to the Garden of Eden.

I then asked the Creator to recognize the fact that Planet Earth and all of its inhabitants had a lot of nurturing and Love to offer, not only to the Universe, but to the other planets in the solar system; Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto. I asked that all of the Unconditional Love that existed on Earth be sent out into our Solar System, and into our Universe.

I then sent out a prayer asking all of my ancestors from the stars to return to Mother Earth, to help with the re-balancing. I informed them that the time was now. I asked that the purification take place in a non-judgmental manner and that the energy of Unconditional Love is present at all times. I invited them to reveal themselves to me in a physical form during my journey if deemed appropriate.

I invoked the fathers in heaven and asked them to send down healing energies through my crown chakra. I then dispersed these energies to every living creature on the entire planet. I then sent energy to the Sun and all of the planets in the solar system. I focused on this energy for several minutes.

Once I completed my prayers, I closed out my ceremony.

I expressed my gratitude to the Creator and took a photograph of the Sun.

I walked over to straighten up the wooden cross...

The Wooden Cross

before consulting the "Google Sky Map" app on my smartphone to see which planets were in attendance.

Mirroring the flight pattern of the three Hawks from the day before, I noticed that the Sun, Saturn, and Mercury formed a straight line above and below the western horizon.

Sun | Saturn | Mercury

As I turned towards the southwest, I could see that Venus and Pluto were also present.

Venus | Pluto

And while facing East, I could see that the Moon was sitting just below that horizon, ready to make its appearance at any given moment.

A few more minutes passed, and I took one last photograph of the Sun...

The Sun

before it finally disappeared behind the horizon.

I then waited patiently for the Full Moon to reveal itself in the East. As soon as it came into view, I took the following photograph of it and the wooden cross.

The Full Moon and The Wooden Cross

I then turned back towards the West to acknowledge planet Venus.

Planet Venus

And with that, the first 36 days of my journey were sealed in place.

Even though I was asked to use the words, cleansing, purification, and re-balancing in all of my meditations, I never had a clear understanding of precisely what those words meant, or how they should be interpreted.

Intuitively, I felt like they were used to bring about some global shift in a way that wasn't physical, but I couldn't be sure. I tried to stay clear of any preconceived ideas. It was never my personal intention to try and bring about any global destruction that would wipe out humanity. I was sure of that. In the end, it wasn't up to me to decide what it meant; my sole, or soul, purpose was to perform the meditation and then let go.

Regardless, The Transfiguration of Christ chapter was complete.

Afterwords | November 18, 2013, thru April 14, 2014

Over the next few days, weeks and months, as I patiently waited for more inspiration to help guide me on the next part of my journey, I passed the time by following the news about Comet ISON, as it passed by planet Venus on its way towards the Sun.

Between November 28 and November 30, 2013, just eleven days after completing my prayers and meditations, and during Hanukkah, Comet ISON was vaporized by the Sun during perihelion and left behind some amazing images captured by the ©SECCHI telescope.

(Above)

I thanked Comet ISON for accompanying me during my first 36 meditations.

Rewind: During this period of “downtime” I took a moment to reflect on a conversation that I had with Ahote during one of our visits at Hopi.

It was a few months before December 21, 2012, and he and I were talking about the end of the fourth world, and the event that would be the catalyst for the next cleansing, or purification of Earth.

He said something to the effect that we did not have to worry. Those beings that were in charge, or the "watchers" over the Earth, were there to protect us at all times against global destruction that may be caused by a comet, asteroid and any other object out in space. He said those beings would continue to protect us from those types of things as long as the majority of people on the planet were kind, loving people, and everyone remained in balance with Mother Earth.

He continued to say that once the scales tipped, and the people of the Earth were out of balance, those "watchers" would take a step back and let nature takes its course.

I found this to be very interesting.

As I continued through this period of personal hibernation the Hawk(s) appeared several more times, reminding me to stay focused and ready to resume my journey at any given moment. I spent the early part of December preparing for a trip to North Carolina, to visit my family for the holidays.

I departed for North Carolina on December 10, 2013, and arrived four days later on December 14. I spent the next couple of weeks visiting with family and friends.

On December 21, 2013, while visiting my niece's home in Wilmington, North Carolina, I noticed a Hawk sitting on a nearby power line. As I walked towards the Hawk to take a photograph, it suddenly turned its head and looked directly at me. I could feel it's piercing eyes looking deep down into my soul.

Hawk Number One

A few days later I returned to my sister's home in Whitsett, North Carolina, and was able to capture this photograph of another Hawk sitting outside her house. This Hawk also appeared to be keeping an eye on me.

Hawk Number Two

After a lovely holiday, I headed back to Phoenix on Monday, December 30, 2013. On that particular day, I counted six Hawks at different locations on the side of the road during my drive from Whitsett, North Carolina, to Dickson, Tennessee.

On Tuesday, December 31, the last day of 2013, I counted 33 Hawks and 1 Eagle during my drive from Dickson, Tennessee, to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. For me, ending the year with that many sightings was very promising, primarily since the number 33 was such a significant number in my journey.

On Wednesday, January 1, I counted 4 Hawks between Oklahoma City and Santa Fe, New Mexico. And on Thursday, January 2, 2014, I didn't see any Hawks at all during my drive from Santa Fe to Phoenix.

However, the very next day I was paid a visit by a Hawk near, my apartment, which I just happened to capture with my camera.

Hawk Number Three

On January 18, 2014. I attended an event at A Peace of The Universe created to help people connect with loved ones on the other side. Before the event began, each participant was asked to retrieve a wrapped gift from the center of the table.

The women went first; then the men were invited to the table to choose a gift. When given the opportunity I went for a small, red bag located in the center of the table.

Red Bag

We then were asked to place the gift underneath our seats until the end of the night. After a fantastic night of messages from loved ones on the other side, we got to unwrap and open our gifts to see if there were any additional messages.

I reached inside the small, red bag and pulled out a box that said "The Heard Museum Shop."

Considering my connection with the Hopi, my gift could not have been more "spot on." Inside this small box were three items: a small native American necklace, a crystal and a fortune cookie that read:

"You will travel to many exotic places and learn to look within."

Crystal & Necklace

Fortune Cookie

I thought this was pretty amazing. Fifteen minutes later, after taking a closer look in the very bottom of the bag, I discovered another small gift; a magnet that read, "Let your dreams be the wind beneath your wings."

Refrigerator Magnet

This message resonated with me very strongly since I had the funeral director to play the song, "Wind Beneath My Wings," by Bette Midler for my mother at her funeral back on January 13, 2000, almost 14 years to the date.

This message was a great comfort to me. It was nice to know that my mother's spirit was still with me on my journey.

I left the event and on my way home decided to stop by a friend's house for a brief visit. While walking to his apartment, I passed a car that had the following Arizona license plate:

Arizona License Plate

For me, this was just one more affirmation that my mother was reaching out to me that evening from the other side.

Before I went to bed that night, I got a hit from my intuition that I should head over to the Heard Museum the following morning. And so I did.

I spent most of the next day at the Heard Museum exploring all of the exhibits and participating in several informative tours.

At one point I decided to walk out onto the plaza, and that's when I happened upon a lovely sculpture of a Native American releasing or offering a bird to the sky.

Sculpture

As I knelt down to take a photograph from beneath the sculpture, I noticed that a real Hawk had suddenly appeared in the sky above.

Hawk with Sculpture

I took a step back to zoom in on the Hawk, and that's when I noticed that another bird had joined the Hawk in mid-air.

Hawk and Visitor

The exciting thing about the second bird was that it closely resembled the bird in the sculpture. I wasn't exactly sure what to make of this, but I could feel that it was very significant for my visit.

Several days later, on January 23, 2014, a friend of mine and I took a drive to Tonopah, Arizona, to soak in the hot springs. After an hour or so of soaking, we drove 5 miles out into the desert to do some hiking.

During our hike, I noticed this one mountain off in the distance that kept calling out to me. I kept staring at it, trying to figure out what I was seeing and why the mountain was begging for my attention.

I couldn't see anything until after the sun went down. It was at that moment that the silhouette of the mountain revealed a "sleeping giant." The outline of the mountain looked just like a barrel-chested man lying on his back.

Sleeping Giant

I took this as a clear sign that I should continue my period of hibernation.

On February 16, 2014, I celebrated the four-year anniversary of starting the 72 Days of God adventure.

A few days later, on February 21, 2014, I returned to Dreamy Draw Park for another visit and was visited by a beautiful, Kestrel.

Kestral offered the following medicine: swiftness, speed, aerobatics, soul healing, movement.

This wisdom was just another message that was very important for me to "control the speed and movement" of my journey in a cautious manner. I waited for additional guidance.

Several months before March 2014, I began following a Facebook page titled, "Moses on the Mesa."

Every once in a while the people at Moses on the Mesa would post a photo of the Hopi. Most of these photographs appeared to be taken sometime around the early 1900s. Every one of these photographs of the Hopi had a profound impact on me. I loved them so much that I decided to have a few of them printed on 8" x 8" canvas to hang on my bedroom wall. I picked up the prints from the printer on March 12, 2014.

That night I had the following dream:

I had a dream that I was in a small cave (To see or dream that you are in a cave symbolizes the womb and thus signify refuge, protection, and concealment.), which was shaped like the inside of an igloo. The floor of the cave was covered in sand (To see sand in your dream signifies a shift in perspective or a change in your attitude.) and a small army of ants (According to the biblical interpretations, ants symbolize diligence concerning the things of God. Despite its small size, the ant lays up substance during times of plenty. (Prov 30:25)), which appeared to be walking in single file across the sand. In one corner of the cave was a dead centipede. (To see a centipede in your dream suggests that you are letting your fears and doubts hinder you from making progress and achieving your goals. You need to stop thinking negative thoughts.) At the end of my dream, I began to crawl through a tight hole in the top of the cave, which wasn't big enough for my body.

Intuitively, I had the feeling that the igloo-shaped cave in my dream was probably the Hopi's "place of emergence," otherwise known as the Sipapuni. This idea resonated true for me because it resembled some photographs that I had seen of the Sipapuni when I discovered its location a few weeks earlier while doing some research on the Internet.

After discovering the location of the Sipapuni, I sent Ahote and Tuwa a text message to see if it was okay for me to visit their sacred place of emergence. They informed that as long as I did not remove any objects from the location or surroundings, or take any photographs of the site, it would be fine for me to visit.

Since the journey to the Sipapuni involved a 7.5 hour round trip hike down into the Grand Canyon, something that required a certain amount of skill and expertise, I asked them if they knew of anyone that could escort me, or be my tour guide. They replied by informing me that they didn't know of anyone right off hand but would ask around to see if they could find someone within their community.

Under the full moon of March 16, 2014, I said a prayer to all of the Hopi elders and ancestors in the photographs... and hung the prints on the wall at the head of my bed. I did this with great honor and respect for all of the souls that by now had passed on to the afterlife.

Over the course of the next several weeks, I seemed to go through some major transformation, which took place on a very deeply emotional, spiritual and physical level.

It was during this period that I received news that it was an excellent possibility that the father that I had grown up with was not my birth father. My father was 44 years old when my mother became pregnant with me, and he had already had a couple of heart attacks, so his chances of fathering a child back then were very slim.

The rumor was that my mother had had an affair with my father's best friend when she got pregnant with me, so it was possible that my birth father was someone else. A very close friend of mine who believed in the concept of "Star Children" went so far as to say that perhaps my real father was possibly not of this world. (Google the show "Ancient Aliens Starchildren" to watch the video.)

As one would expect, this information brought about an emotional transformation, which in turn inspired a profound, spiritual transformation. I was now able to understand better certain events that took place with my family earlier in my life, and why at times I felt so disconnected from the people and the place where I grew up. This information would explain why my mother had gone out of her way to make sure that I remembered the fact that my blood type was O-negative, and it would also explain the "Oh Chris" license plate.

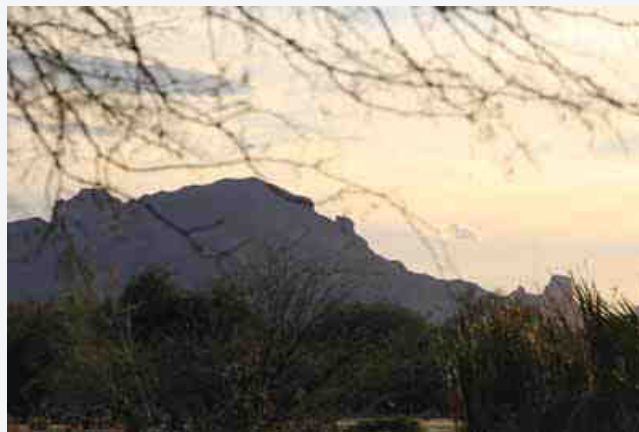

On March 24, around the same time that I had discovered my father, I also had a top, back molar extracted. The dentist had given me antibiotics before the extraction to ward off any possible infection, which in turn caused an allergic reaction in my digestive tract that brought about a physical cleansing that lasted for more than two weeks.

I couldn't help but wonder if hanging the photographs of the Hopi ancestors on my bedroom wall had something to do with my transformations.

On the morning of April 9, 2014, I finally received confirmation from my higher self that I was ready to resume my journey. The sleeping giant was starting to wake up slowly.

The Sleeping Giant Awakens

I decided that I would resume the journey on the first days of Passover; April 14 and April 15, 2014. Beginning with a rare Blood Moon, this next segment of my trip would include 18 full moon meditations between April 14, 2014, and September 28, 2014.

After I committed myself to do the 18 full moon meditations, I realized something exciting. Two chapters of my story, 72 Days of God and 72 Days of Angels and The Brotherhood of Light involved 72 meditations from Kabbalah's, The 72 Names of God.

The first segment of The Transfiguration of Christ, included 36 meditations, exactly half of the original 72. It was here that I began to notice a pattern. Now I was being led to performing 18 full moon meditations, which was exactly half of the 36 meditations I had completed five months earlier.

Reflecting on this a bit further I realized that all three numbers, 72, 36 and 18, when added together individually, or collectively, equaled 9. In numerology 9 represented the number of completion, the bridge between Heaven and Earth. And even more interesting was the fact that the 18 full moons scheduled to take place between April 14, 2014, and September 28, 2014, began and ended with two very rare and powerful Blood Moons.

As I took an even closer look, I could also see that the location of the first Blood Moon was centered directly above the United States where Phoenix and the Hopi Indian Reservation were located.

With all of this in mind, I now had to figure out which meditation to use, and where to direct the energy. I spent the next few days listening very carefully to my higher self as I prepared for my first meditation scheduled to begin at 11:45 PM on April 14, 2014, on the Second Mesa at Hopi.
